Country Realizes Necessity of Making the Fighting Fourth a Success

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—With four more days to go the nation today passed the three billion dollar half way point in the Fourth Liberty loan race toward six billions before Saturday night. Headquarters reports indicated favorable conditions for the closing days of the campaign.

"The first really encouraging reports began to arrive today," said the official.

Military Deficiency Bill Carrying $6,345,755,000 Reported to House

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—The military deficiency bill carrying $6,345,755,000 for the enlarged war program, was reported to the house today by the appropriations committee. It provides $6,152,062,000 for the army, $107,217,000 for the navy, and $70,000,000 for family allowances of soldiers and sailors.

REPORTS POUR IN FROM NEW ENGLAND CITIES

Read the extracts of a few reports from over New England. James Holden, Lowell, Mass., says: "It did for me what other remedies failed to do, built up my system and I feel wonderful."

Mrs. T. Bentley, Worcester, Mass., says: "Vitalitas has worked wonders in my home. It is wonderful as a strength builder."

Mr. W. P. Wason, Salem, Mass., says: "Vitalitas cured my rheumatism and indigestion. There is nothing like it on earth."

Mr. Chas. H. Shaw, of Manchester, N. H., says: "I was run-down, my blood was thin and poor. Vitalitas surely built me up. There is nothing like it."

Fewer Cases Reported Here Today Than in the Past Two Weeks

Schools, Theatres and Saloons May Remain Closed for Another Week

"At this time I don't believe that we are warranted in saying that we will allow the theatres to open next Monday," was the reply Dr. Pierre Brunelle, chairman of the local board of health gave this morning to representatives of the Lowell Theatre Managers' association when they asked if there was any possibility of the theatres in this city re-opening the first of next week as the theatres in Boston are scheduled to.

Dr. Brunelle said that the reports received by the local board for the past few days were most encouraging but there had not yet developed any stable indication that the epidemic is over and for this reason precautions should be continued until there is certainty that there is no need for further precaution.

Asked as to when he thought some definite word might be given, the chairman of the board said that the members of the board would be glad to talk over the matter any time, and that there was a possibility that something definite might be forthcoming by the end of this week.

Regarding the school situation, practically the same conditions apply. Superintendent McElroy conferred with Chairman Brunelle today and the result was substantially the same statement as was given in the case of the theatre managers.

The hotels and saloons, it was stated, would be allowed to open when the schools and theatres open.

Big Drop Today

Today's developments in the epidemic were the most encouraging since the epidemic began. Up to noon only 76 cases had been reported. Last Wednesday the total for the day was 171 and the preceding Wednesday 140. The total number of cases to date is 5676. Eight deaths were reported this morning, making a total of 243.

Two-Hour Session

This morning's meeting of the board of health lasted for nearly two hours. All the members of the board were present and also Dr. C. E. Simpson, state health officer, and Dr. C. R. Eskey, the federal officer in charge of the isolation hospital.

Dr. Eskey reported that to date 60 patients have been treated at the hospital and five more were due to arrive today. Yesterday 12 patients were discharged as cured and two died. Twelve new patients were admitted. At the present time, he said, there are eight vacant beds for women and plenty for men. He has transferred convalescent patients from the hospital wards into the administration building and this has given more room.

The doctor said that he believed there were sufficient accommodations to take care of all patients who would be sent to the hospital within the next few days, without opening the third ward of the hospital group. If this ward is to be opened, he said, it would mean that three more trained nurses are for night and two for day, would have to be secured. Dr. Simpson said that he would be able to get at least one trained nurse.

Dr. Eskey said that 26 more beds will be needed if the third ward is opened and after communicating with Mayor Thompson, it was found that these could be readily secured.

The opening of the third ward will be contingent to a great extent on the result of the survey of the city now being made by the teachers and which is not yet finished. If the teachers succeed in ascertaining a large

British Patrols In Lille, French Push On, Belgians Mile From Thielt and Americans Gain

Allies Sweeping Steadily Ahead Toward Bruges and Ghent—Yanks Batter Down Stiff Resistance and Push On Along Meuse—French Near Rethel—Huns Again Caught in Pocket

PARIS, Oct. 16.—British patrols entered the southwestern suburbs of Lille this morning.

BELGIANS' CONTINUE TO PUSH ON TOWARD THIELT

BRITISH ARMY HEADQUARTERS IN FLANDERS, Oct. 16. (Reuters.)—Belgian cavalry this morning was reported to be within a mile of the important railway center of Thielt. That town is only about 15 miles northwest of Ghent.

ALLIES TAKE MENIN AND WERVICQ—CROSS LYS

(By the Associated Press)

Sweeping steadily ahead over the lowlands of Belgian Flanders, the British, French and Belgian armies are rapidly bearing away the extreme right flank of the German battle line. Twelve thousand prisoners have been captured in two days.

Menin and Wervicq Captured

Allied forces have captured Menin and Wervicq and are across the Lys river, in the neighborhood of Thourout. There are unofficial reports that Thourout has been taken and it is confirmed that the British are within two miles of Courtrai. This completely outflanks Lille from the north and the Germans will probably be forced out of that city in a short time. The allies are now about 11 miles from Bruges and 25 miles from Ghent. They have advanced about seven miles since Monday.

Americans Smash On

Fighting their way through a maze of barbed wire defenses and over tangled lines of trenches, the American troops of the Meuse river are

OFFICIAL WAR REPORTS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—Substantial gains on both sides of the Meuse against stubborn resistance by a reinforced enemy, were reported today by General Pershing in his communique for Tuesday.

BELGIAN

LONDON, Oct. 16.—The Belgian army under King Albert is advancing rapidly along the Cortemarck-Thourout road. The fall of the Belgian town of Thourout, whose capture was prematurely announced unofficially yesterday is expected almost immediately.

BRITISH

LONDON, Oct. 16.—Gains of ground by British patrols during last night in the Douai-Lille sector are reported by Field Marshal Haig in his official statement today.

FRENCH

PARIS, Oct. 16.—French forces last night captured the village of Acy-Romance, within a mile of the important railway junction of Rethel, in the Champagne, the war office announced today.

The French made further progress to the north of Sissonne, while between Sissonne and Rethel they repulsed a violent enemy counter attack near St. Germainmont.

slowly cutting their way through the Kriemhilde line. They have carried hill 295, which dominates much of the country west of Romagne, and have penetrated the second line of defense in the vicinity of Landres-et-St. Georges.

Hun Reserves Hurdled Into Battle

The Germans are pouring fresh troops into the struggle in the hope that the American onslaught may be stayed before it reaches the important railroad lines in the rear of the German front. A victory for the Americans in the Argonne sector would compel a general retreat by the enemy from the most of the French ground he still holds.

French Pass Sissonne

French and Italian troops are moving more slowly along the line from the Oise to the Aisne than they did on Sunday, when they wiped out the greater part of the Laon-La Fere salient. From all accounts, the Germans are gradually emptying the pocket formed when the allies broke the lines north of St. Quentin and along the Aisne at Berry-au-Bac.

The French, however, have passed Sissonne, formerly one of the principal concentration points for German troops in this part of the front. General Gouraud's army has crossed the Aisne west of Rethel.

Germans in Another Pocket

This advance makes the position of the enemy further east perilous. As the progress of the French in this region continues, the Germans in the Champagne sector seem to be slowly involved in another pocket such as has often forced a rapid retirement on various sectors of the line.

LAUD PRESIDENT HUNS GET REPLY

Copenhagen Papers Call His Reply to Germany Record in Statesmanship

U. S. Has Created in France the Mightiest Organization World Has Ever Known

COPENHAGEN, Tuesday, Oct. 15.—News in which America and President Wilson figure is absorbing all interest here. The president's answer to Germany was published in Copenhagen tonight and some of the newspapers describe it as a record in statesmanship.

The Politiken, a governmental organ, arranged for a meeting of the representatives of the leading Danish newspapers tonight when a correspondent, who had returned from the western front delivered a lecture on America's share in the war.

The correspondent said that what America had done since Gen. Pershing had landed in France was simply marvelous. The American commander-in-chief, the speaker said, had created in France, the mightiest organization the world had ever known. The United States through its unique energy and cleverness, he added, had made a reality of fanciful and wonderful fiction.

ARRAIGNED ON CHARGE OF POLYGAMY

Horace E. Webber alias Horace E. Emery was arraigned before Judge Enright at this morning's session of the police court on a charge of polygamy and after he had entered a plea of guilty his case was continued until next Tuesday, his bail being fixed at $500.

Webber, who is employed as a teamster by a local coal dealer, was arrested last evening by Lieut. Maher and Court Officer Cawley on a warrant charging him with polygamy. After being brought to the station he was questioned and he admitted having married Miss Mary Weiss in this city last December despite the fact that five years ago he married a Miss Annie Richardson, the ceremony at that time being performed in Farmington.

Webber informed the police he has two children, one by each wife, but he said he is more attached to the child of his last wife. When questioned as to whether he had secured his divorce from his first wife the prisoner replied in the negative, saying such court proceedings were too expensive. The police will endeavor to locate his first wife.

Frank Podany, an escaped inmate from the Tewksbury infirmary, was in court on a charge of vagrancy and after admitting his guilt, he was sentenced to the state farm.

John H. Wells was charged with the larceny of 200 pounds of copper valued at 21 cents a pound, from Reuben Dunstford and he denied his guilt. His case was continued until Saturday morning.

Emile C. Simard was arraigned on a complaint charging him with illegal sale of liquor and at his request his case was continued for a week.

Armand Richard was called to answer a charge of neglect of wife, but inasmuch as he failed to put in an appearance he was ordered defaulted. Drunkenness cases were disposed of as follows: William J. Gillis, John McDonough and Frank Gallagher, $10 each; James Monro, suspended sentence to the state farm; James J. Wilmore, suspended sentence to the house of correction.

Pres. Wilson's Note Produced "A Most Unfavorable Impression" in Berlin

Panic in Berlin Banking Circles—War Lords Decide to Raise Military Age

LONDON, Oct. 16.—President Wilson's reply to the German peace note produced "a most unfavorable impression" in Berlin, says a Central News despatch from Amsterdam today. The publication of the reply, it adds, was followed by a panic in Berlin banking circles and on the stock exchange.

The German supreme command, the despatch state, will come to Berlin at the end of the present week "to deliberate on mobilization, concentration of the national strength and the raising of the military age."

WILSON'S REPLY REACHES BERLIN

BASEL, Switzerland, Tuesday, Oct. 16.—President Wilson's reply to the German peace proposals reached Berlin at noon today. It had not been given to the German public, however, up to 8 o'clock tonight.

EXPECT MAX TO MAKE DECISION TODAY

LONDON, Oct. 16.—It is expected that the German imperial chancellor will make a decision today on the matters contained in President Wilson's latest note, says a despatch from Copenhagen to the Exchange Telegraph Co.

The German newspapers point out, the message adds, that President Wilson's note had the effect of a cold douche on the hopes for peace engendered by his first note. Some of the newspapers comment on the note in the sharpest terms and with unbridled words, adding that the "language of President Wilson now has become excited after the conferences he has had with the Allies."

WILSON'S REPLY APPROVED IN PARIS

PARIS, Oct. 16.—Enthusiastic approval is given President Wilson's reply to Germany by the morning newspapers.

LOWELL INCREASES PACE IN LOAN CAMPAIGN

With only three days remaining for her to raise her quota of $7,000,000 in what will probably be the last Liberty loan campaign, Lowell got down to business today to boost her total over the $6,000,000 mark before night.

At the opening of business this morning the city's total was $6,693,600 and there is little doubt but what the sixth milepost will have been passed when all the banks make their reports tonight.

All day today there was a steady stream of eleven-hour subscribers who want to get in before it is too late. A few of the banks announced that they would be open all afternoon to take care of the expected influx and this will be the case until the end of the drive Saturday night.

The local Boy Scouts are on the job in their clean-up campaign to assist the local Liberty loan committee to corral every possible subscription. The downtown streets received their share of attention during the early part of the week and now the scouts are getting into the residential sections. The scouts' totals to date are not available as the figures have not yet been compiled, but there is little doubt that the scouts will come through within a day or two.

Doubling Up

The local banks report that their subscribers are heeding the "double up" slogan and many of those who bought their bonds early in the campaign are now coming back for a second holding. Only in this way will Lowell be able to go over the "six" and secure her quota of $7,000,000. There is hardly a person in Lowell who cannot buy at least one

The war department announced the feat today, disclosing that the plane was piloted by Lieut. Cyrus F. Smythe, with Major H. L. Armstrong as observer.

Women's Committee

Both in Lowell and the surrounding towns of the northern Middlesex county district the women's campaign committees are doing excellent work. Mrs. H. Hutchins Parker, chairman for Lowell proper is selling bonds at the booth in the Strand theatre lobby and yesterday she sold $2500 worth. One sale was that of a $1000 bond.

Mrs. William T. Sheppard is directing the women's work outside of the town and she reports that to date her workers have raised $338,700.

BEST INFLU CURE

Dr. Brooks Says Air and Sunshine Kill the Spanish Influenza Germ
Predicts Mild Recurrence of the Epidemic During Next Two Years

BOSTON, Oct. 16.—Dr. William A. Brooks, surgeon general of the Massachusetts state board, who has made an exhaustive study of the influenza and pneumonia epidemic, in conjunction with others, last night made public the results of the studies and observations of the little group of experts who were in constant attendance on the 351 patients treated at the Brooks Open-Air Hospital, Corey Hill.

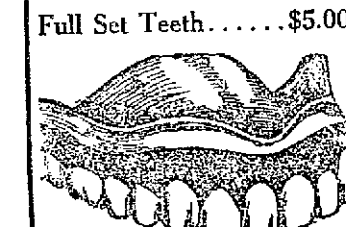

"In my humble opinion," said Dr. Brooks, "the study of this epidemic will revolutionize the construction of hospitals for medical diseases, and I am willing to make the forecast that in the next 10 years, in treating medical diseases with more surgical technique we will have as great an advance in medicine as there has been in surgery during the past 10 years, provided the medical profession learns its lesson from this epidemic and does not go on in the old routine."

So many doctors have gone to war, the services of comparatively few are available at home.
Good proprietary medicines are more widely used than ever, and more and more people are finding out how great their merits are.

These medicines are remarkably efficient, whether taken in conjunction or separately.

and by midnight the same night we had 38 patients at Corey Hill. There is nothing in medical literature which would furnish light on the points we found at the open-air camp. We took in all 351 of the worst cases of the 1200 or more aboard the ships, and while the cases were not bad at first we did get some pneumonia cases.
"The first lesson we learned was that the worst cases came from the parts of the ship where the circulation was the poorest, from the holds, where the men were crowded in like sheep. That discovery really gave us our first clue as to the treatment of the cases as a preventive. If the air was good, we discovered, the cases were not so apt to be infectious.
"The next point we learned was that drugs that we were accustomed to use to affect the heart had no effect whatsoever. Then we received reports from the autopsies made on victims at the Naval Hospital. They showed that in nearly every instance the heart was perfectly normal, but that the lungs were filled with pus cavities and that the area of the lungs exposed to take in oxygen was tremendously reduced, so that those men died, not because their hearts went back, but because they couldn't get enough air. They simply drowned. The answer was to put them out where they could get air, all the air there was. Even a sun-parlor, we learned, was not as good as putting the patients out in the open in coats.

Blood Tests of Little Value
"The results were startling. A lot of men began to come back and the pneumonia victims commenced to get well. Meanwhile, we were carrying on studies and we took the blood, but it didn't show anything of value. Next we took the sputum and also took swabs from the nose and throat and we found we had what is known as a mixed infection, the principal bug being the influenza bacillus, and mixed with him we had the pneumococcus. Of the pneumococcus we found 2 types principally, type 1 and type 2. Type 1 is of the pus producing character and when he gets into the body and lungs he helps produce pus cavities found in the lungs. He also helps produce the streptococcus.
"We found from examination of sputum that we could make a diagnosis of pneumonia before we could hear the signs in the chest. Then we found another startling thing and that was by putting all the patients out in the sunlight the temperatures, without exception almost, were lower at night than in the morning. We knew from other men's work that sunlight kills the influenza bug very quickly.
"As another and further proof of the combined efforts of 14 different men, working together to do what they could to prevent the spread of the epidemic—personally I do not claim any credit; the discoveries that have been made are the results of a system and not of any one man's idea—we found that as far as medication is concerned a little Dover's powder for pain, some form of aspirin to make the blood a little more antiseptic and a little iodide of lime to relieve the feeling of pressure in the chest, were about all that was effective. These drugs, combined with plenty of air and sunshine, when you can get it, greatly reduce the mortality.

"To substantiate these theories we learned that 300 radio boys from Commonwealth Pier have been camping at the Framingham camp grounds for several weeks. At first we were skeptical about the efficacy of such a test, because of the men being in such close contact, but at last reports only one man reported for sick call, and he complained of a burned foot.
"Another very important and significant discovery in connection with the epidemic is that Roseau has been working over and with these bugs, examining them and stewing them, and all he has used as a preventive is a mask so made that the gauze does not touch his mouth or nostrils. In addition, he simply washed his hands frequently in a solution of 1 to 1000 corrosive sublimate. He hasn't contracted the disease.
"The value of the mask is simply to act as a filter—to filter the air—and this is proven by the fact that you can take a solution of the bugs and let that solution run through an ordinary filter paper and Roseau states that it has been impossible to find bugs in the liquid that runs through. It is much better to burn all gauze masks after using them than to sterilize them. This means that the fuzzi disappears as before.
"Even the doctors and physicians who have worked so energetically and courageously throughout the epidemic are not absolved from some criticism. We have known doctors to wear masks in hospitals, but in treating their private patients they refrained from doing so because they took it for granted that the homes were clean or else they did not wish to offend their private patients. How in the world can a physician expect the poor people to do what they themselves do not do?

Younger Men Most Susceptible
"It has been said that men of 45 are not as susceptible to the disease as these younger. In a measure this is true, but only insofar as he must be tough and possess tremendous powers of resistance to have reached 45 anyway.
"Because of what we have discovered of the value of fresh air and sunshine as a curative and preventive, I have no fear of the disease getting into our army in the field. Parents and relatives of our boys in France need have little fear of their becoming victims while they are out in the open air and sunshine.
"Here in the United States we will have a repetition of the epidemic next year, in fact for the next two years, but the recurrence will be milder in 1919 and much more so in 1920. We have already discovered that some of the afflicted who have been pronounced cured still retain the germ. They are carriers and through them the disease will break out anew next year, but if we will be in a much milder form, but if we don't learn our lesson now and be ready another year we will have our troubles as we are having them now."

THIN BLOOD AFTER ATTACK OF INFLUENZA

Until This Fall River Woman Built Up Her Blood No Medicine Helped Her

An attack of influenza, even of the milder form commonly called the grip, may mean a lifetime of misery if proper precautions are not taken to restore the blood and drive out the lingering poisons that cause the so-called "after-effects" of the disease. The grip leaves behind it weakened vital powers, thin blood, impaired digestion and over-sensitive nerves—a condition that makes the system an easy prey to pneumonia, bronchitis, rheumatism, nervous prostration and even consumption.
"My lack of the grip left Mrs. Esther Gorse, of No. 137 Oliver street, Fall River, Mass., in an anemic condition and until she took Dr. Williams' Pink Pills no medicine helped her. Mrs. Gorse says:
"I was all tired out and my blood was very thin. I had but little ambition to work and felt mean all the time. My stomach was very weak and I had no desire for food. Severe headaches became very frequent. A friend of mine who had been helped by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills suggested them to me and one box proved them to be the remedy I needed. My appetite returned and soon I felt stronger and better in every way.
"Each spring I use Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and they always build me up and give me strength.
"My son was weak after an attack of the grip and I gave him Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They helped him at once. I always recommend these pills as I know from experience that they are a valuable tonic."
Dr. Williams' Pink Pills contain the elements necessary to make new blood and, as the nerves get their nourishment from the blood, have been found invaluable in a wide range of diseases of the blood and nerves, such as rheumatism, after-effects of the grip and fevers, neuralgia and nervous debility.
Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists, or will be sent by mail, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box; six boxes, $2.50, by the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y. A booklet, "Build Up the Blood," will be mailed free to any address upon request.—ADV.

Rapidity of Allied Advance Foiled Hun Plan to Dynamite St. Quentin Edifice

REVOLT IN BOHEMIA

Czecho-Slovak Council Protests Export of Foodstuffs—General Strike Called
PARIS, Oct. 16.—Meetings called by the Czecho-Slovak council at Prague to protest against the export of foodstuffs from Bohemia resulted in a general strike which is developing into a revolt, according to a despatch from Zurich to today's Paris newspapers. Martial law has been proclaimed throughout the country and German and Hungarian troops are occupying Prague, Pilsen, Plsek and Tabov.

LONDON, Tuesday, Oct. 15.—A general strike has been called in Moravia and Bohemia, and great demonstrations in honor of an independent state have taken place at Prague, according to a Zurich despatch. All theatres and places of public meeting have been closed. Deputies are said to have declared in speeches that the final phase of the Czech revolution is begun.

HUN TROOPS SIDE WITH REBELS IN UKRAINE

STOCKHOLM, Oct. 16.—Insurrection is spreading in the Ukraine and recently extended throughout the government of Podolia, according to despatches received by the Politiken. At several places it is reported, the German troops are siding with the rebels.
Several thousand troops are declared to have hoisted the red flag near Ekaterinoslav, and to have killed their officers. They are now marching on Kharkov to join the revolutionary soldiers who hold the town.

WOMAN'S HAND MIRROR SAVED 50 LIVES
LONDON, Oct. 16.—(Correspondence of the Associated Press)—A woman's hand mirror was the means of saving 50 lives from the torpedoed liner Galway Castle. Among the survivors on a raft was a woman who took from her handbag a small mirror and suggested one of the sailors use it for making heliographic signals.
The attempt was made and the signal brought in a destroyer at full speed which took off the survivors from the raft as well as a number of sailors clinging to wreckage.

THIN BLOOD AFTER ATTACK OF INFLUENZA

Until This Fall River Woman Built Up Her Blood No Medicine Helped Her

An attack of influenza, even of the milder form commonly called the grip, may mean a lifetime of misery if proper precautions are not taken to restore the blood and drive out the lingering poisons that cause the so-called "after-effects" of the disease. The grip leaves behind it weakened vital powers, thin blood, impaired digestion and over-sensitive nerves—a condition that makes the system an easy prey to pneumonia, bronchitis, rheumatism, nervous prostration and even consumption.
"My lack of the grip left Mrs. Esther Gorse, of No. 137 Oliver street, Fall River, Mass., in an anemic condition and until she took Dr. Williams' Pink Pills no medicine helped her. Mrs. Gorse says:
"I was all tired out and my blood was very thin. I had but little ambition to work and felt mean all the time. My stomach was very weak and I had no desire for food. Severe headaches became very frequent. A friend of mine who had been helped by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills suggested them to me and one box proved them to be the remedy I needed. My appetite returned and soon I felt stronger and better in every way.
"Each spring I use Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and they always build me up and give me strength.
"My son was weak after an attack of the grip and I gave him Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They helped him at once. I always recommend these pills as I know from experience that they are a valuable tonic."
Dr. Williams' Pink Pills contain the elements necessary to make new blood and, as the nerves get their nourishment from the blood, have been found invaluable in a wide range of diseases of the blood and nerves, such as rheumatism, after-effects of the grip and fevers, neuralgia and nervous debility.
Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists, or will be sent by mail, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box; six boxes, $2.50, by the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y. A booklet, "Build Up the Blood," will be mailed free to any address upon request.—ADV.

TO BLOW UP CATHEDRAL

Rapidity of Allied Advance Foiled Hun Plan to Dynamite St. Quentin Edifice
PARIS, Tuesday, Oct. 15.—When allied troops entered St. Quentin they found that every pillar in the cathedral there has been excavated at the level of the ground, preparatory to placing explosives under them, according to the Liberte. The rapidity of the allied advance prevented the Germans from carrying out their plan to destroy the edifice.

REVOLT IN BOHEMIA

PARIS, Oct. 16.—Meetings called by the Czecho-Slovak council at Prague to protest against the export of foodstuffs from Bohemia resulted in a general strike which is developing into a revolt, according to a despatch from Zurich to today's Paris newspapers. Martial law has been proclaimed throughout the country and German and Hungarian troops are occupying Prague, Pilsen, Plsek and Tabov.

LONDON, Tuesday, Oct. 15.—A general strike has been called in Moravia and Bohemia, and great demonstrations in honor of an independent state have taken place at Prague, according to a Zurich despatch. All theatres and places of public meeting have been closed. Deputies are said to have declared in speeches that the final phase of the Czech revolution is begun.

HUN TROOPS SIDE WITH REBELS IN UKRAINE

STOCKHOLM, Oct. 16.—Insurrection is spreading in the Ukraine and recently extended throughout the government of Podolia, according to despatches received by the Politiken. At several places it is reported, the German troops are siding with the rebels.
Several thousand troops are declared to have hoisted the red flag near Ekaterinoslav, and to have killed their officers. They are now marching on Kharkov to join the revolutionary soldiers who hold the town.
A peasant force of 5000 men, with machine guns and cannon, is moving on Poltava.

WOMAN'S HAND MIRROR SAVED 50 LIVES
LONDON, Oct. 16.—(Correspondence of the Associated Press)—A woman's hand mirror was the means of saving 50 lives from the torpedoed liner Galway Castle. Among the survivors on a raft was a woman who took from her handbag a small mirror and suggested one of the sailors use it for making heliographic signals.
The attempt was made and the signal brought in a destroyer at full speed which took off the survivors from the raft as well as a number of sailors clinging to wreckage.

12,000 AT SHIP PLANT

Big Force Turning Out Ships With Great Speed at Newport News, Va.

NEWPORT NEWS, Va., Oct. 16.—New shipways, towering cranes, spreading shops, fields of steel and the incessant clatter day and night of automatic riveters, great steam hammers and whirling machinery are the symbols of war-time shipbuilding here where deep sea craft have been turned out since the war.

Thirty Feet of Danger

The intestinal canal is an important part of every individual, important every inch of its thirty feet. The upper portion of it is intended for the digestion of food and absorption of its useful portions. But the lower part is concerned with the elimination of waste material.

It is, in other words, the great sewer of the body. The more food eaten, the greater the waste. If a sewer becomes clogged up, its contents stagnate and become more and more dangerous.

Constipation means more than failure to evacuate the bowels regularly and thoroughly. It means stagnation, increased fermentation, putrefaction and germ action. Increased amounts of irritating and poisonous substances are formed. Absorption of these into the blood follows. Self-poisoning results.

Danger, disorder, disease, or even death follow. Pills, purgative mineral waters, castor oil, salts, etc., do not cure constipation or prevent its consequences. They make it worse because they do not only irritate the bowels, but they "wear out" in effect and so must be taken in increasing doses, making constipation a habit.

But the Nujol Treatment for Constipation overcomes constipation by helping Nature re-establish easy, daily, thorough bowel evacuation as "regular as clockwork."

Nujol prevents stagnation and self-poisoning.

Nujol forms no habit, except a natural, healthy habit.

After Nujol has trained the bowels to act, it can be dispensed with.

the west, who had never seen a ship, and women whose only experience with metals had been in the handling of pots and pans, answered the call of their country to build many of the destroyers which steadily are removing the menace of the submarine and keeping open the lanes through which the millions of American soldiers are going to the western front.

How well these men and women have done their work under the guidance of skilled workers, is demonstrated by the fact that every destroyer turned out has more than met the express-train speed required under the navy contract. And it is no secret at least not here, that the finished ships which have gone into the star zone have given a good account of themselves even as the training and other pre-war products of this yard have added new laurels to American naval records.

While all possible energy is going into the building of the "hedge of ships" in France and their guardians, the expansion of this plant into one of the world's greatest shipyards is planned for after-the-war needs as well as for those of the present.

Ship after ship has been built and cranes and other labor saving devices installed so that when peace comes foreign yards may be met in the great race that is inevitable for the reconstruction of destroyed tonnage.

Even now there are in the building of this yard the largest shipways in America. Here, after the war, will be laid down two of the monster battle cruisers congress authorized in 1916, designed as the fastest and most powerful ships of their type on the sea.

Nearly these new ways four emergency ways have been thrown up on ground "made" within the year. On these emergency ways naval vessels are building and more will follow where these are launched. A few hundred yards away more shining ships are building, two and three to one set of ways. On still other stocks, merchant ships and other craft are being put together.

Turbines largely have supplanted the old style reciprocating drive engine and it is on these that women have been pressed into service, performing the delicate work of finishing the myriad brass paddles against which the steam strikes to revolve the turbine drum, much as water runs a mill wheel.

In the yard dispensary, where men who are injured are treated, nurses and doctors are constantly on duty. A band gives concerts in the yard each noon.

Housing has been the greatest problem. Two miles beyond the city on a high bluff overlooking the river is rising a new city to be peopled exclusively by shipyard workers. High wages are the rule as at other yards, with rivers, many of them negroes, making as high as $25 and $30 a day. Loyalty is preached in season and out.

In peacetime this yard completed merchant ships in six months or less, but it is bettering that now even, as it has more than met in half the time for turning out destroyers. Officials and workmen alike have ever before them on a bronze tablet set in the side of a stone column the words of the founder of the yard, the late Collis P. Huntington, master railroad and ship builder in the nation's pioneer days:

"Here we will build good ships; at a profit if we can, at a loss if we must, but always good ships."

FIBBED WHEN HE SAID HE BELONGED HERE

That the hard luck stories which police and other officials frequently have to listen to are not always the truth, a recent case which was brought to the attention of the Lowell Humane society will prove.

A few days ago, the Lowell agent of the society received a message from the society for the prevention of cruelty to children of New York City, asking him to try and locate the parent of one Henry Dirosa, aged 4, who had given his address as 242 Perry street, Lowell, and who was then suffering from a fractured skull, and had been placed on the dangerous list at the Bellevue hospital.

The story as told to the New York police by the boy ran about as follows: He had left Lowell one year and eight months ago, where he had resided with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Dirosa, at the aforementioned address. His father, he stated, was the proprietor of a tailor shop here. As regards his life in the big city, he had been selling papers for a living, and made his home at a Bowery hotel called the Oriental.

He had a short time before made the acquaintance of a young man 18 years of age, name unknown, who had induced him to steal some pigeons from a 6th avenue residence. He was struck in the act by the owner, who caught him on the head with a hammer.

Strenuous efforts were made by Agent Dirosa, and also by the local police to locate the boy's parents, and inform them of their son's condition, but to no avail. The agents of Perry street could give out no information regarding the Dirosa family, past or present.

Shortly after the agent had given the task up as hopeless he received a second communication from the New York society, saying that the boy's story was a complete fabrication from beginning to end, and that according to his later story, his name was Nunzio Cirincione, and his real home in Brooklyn, N. Y.

LICENSE BOARD GIVES HEARING ON CHARGE AGAINST HOTEL MAN

Rugh F. Mellen of the St. Charles hotel was given a hearing by the license commission at the regular meeting of the commission late yesterday afternoon on the complaint filed by Supt. Welch for illegal sale of liquor, and at the close of the hearing the commission took the matter under advisement.

In the course of the hearing it was testified by Lieut. Patrie and Inspector Winn of the liquor squad that on Labor day they found men drinking in a side room of the hotel and that the men had not been served food. They claimed that after Mr. Mellen's attention was called to existing conditions he later closed that section of the building.

Mr. Mellen said that on that day there was an unusually large crowd in that district of the city because of the parade, and because of the absence of three of his regular employees he was obliged to take in new help. He said the new men were not

Mr. Mellen said that when his attention was called to conditions he immediately closed the room. William A. Hogan appeared for Mr. Mellen, while Supt. Welch conducted the case for the government.

OLD HOTEL CLERK FOOLED

A western senator who loves a good joke a few days ago stated to some of his personal friends at the capital an amusing incident that happened recently in his own family.

"Shortly after we came to Washington my wife's hair began to turn gray," the senator said. "I never saw anyone so distressed as Helen was. She fretted every time she looked into a mirror, and the more she fretted the grayer she grew."

"She took it so to heart that I suggested that she dye her hair, but she wouldn't listen to that. I suggested a wig, but that wouldn't do either."

"When we went out west for the summer, someone told her about a preparation called Q-Ban Color Restorer. When she was convinced it wasn't a dye, she tried it, and sure enough the gray hairs began gradually to disappear. By the time we were ready to return to Washington, she actually looked 20 years younger."

"We went to the hotel where we frequently stop, and my wife happened to walk up to the desk with me. The clerk was an old friend of mine, and he nearly knocked my breath away when he said: 'Senator, would you like a connecting room for your daughter?'"

American Forces Meet Desperate German Resistance Near Romagne

Under Heavy Fire All Day—
Take Positions and Gun
Nest by Encircling Them

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY NORTHWEST OF VERDUN, Oct. 15, 8.30 p. m. (By the Associated Press)—In the face of the most stubborn resistance conceivable, including literally hundreds of machine gun nests, the Americans advanced again today and widened the breach in the Kriemhilde line.

The Germans heavily shelled the centre and left centre of the American line, and desperate counter attacks were carried out. These counter attacks failed.

The Americans, who captured Hill 299 and penetrate the strong wire defences between Landres et St. Georges and St. Georges, have passed St. Juvin.

Awful Gunfire

The American gains in general were accomplished through persistence of the strategic policy of surrounding the objectives, rather than storming them.

The machine gun filled woods and heights lying in the path of the American advance were taken for the most part by going around them on the left and right and joining forces again on the north side and cleaning up the area thus encircled.

The day's fighting began early, when the centre moved forward and encircled the difficult position at Hill 288, from which a machine gun fire, estimated as coming from at least 200 guns concealed in the adjacent woods, was poured into the Americans. The patrols pushed forward, despite the enemy opposition, into the Bantheville woods.

Advance to Bantheville

Hill 286 was taken early notwithstanding a withering machine gun fire and a deluge of gas shells which compelled the Americans to fight for hours with their gas masks adjusted. They also encountered vast quantities of wire which had not sufficiently been cut by the artillery and sustained an enfilading fire from both sides.

A big fight ensued for the strategic Cote de Châtillon which commands the terrain northward and which was attacked by the encircling method the Americans taking the Tullerles farm to the northeast. This farm was taken under artillery fire by both the Germans and Americans late this afternoon and for a time remained No Man's land.

The American advance at this point involved the capture of Le Mansard farm and filtration through the wire guarding the Sommerance-Landres road. The opposition against the right centre of the Americans grew less in the afternoon, so that patrols were able to push northward and westward to gain a sure footing in Bantheville and Bantheville wood.

No Belief in Peace

Perhaps the most interesting development of the day was the fact that the Americans and the Germans, too, fought with a fierceness, stubbornness and tenacity utterly belying any belief that their part in peace is a matter of the near future.

The Americans are almost unanimous that the German proposals are insincere, and that whether sincere or not, the enemy must be severely punished. Many with whom the correspondent talked during the tour of the most active portions of the front, seemed to take the attitude that they had perhaps only a little time in which to strike the enemy and wanted to make the most of it.

Despite the rain which streamed down all day from low-hanging clouds the American aviation corps again performed wonderful work in assisting the infantry, flying constantly at an altitude below 500 meters. The aviators efficiently directed battery work, made reconnaissances, kept the infantry liaison with headquarters and brought in valuable information.

LIKE CLOCK-WORK

Correspondent Describes First Days of New Allied Offensive in Flanders

Allies Smash Through Bavarian Guards and Cavalry and Win All Objectives

LONDON, Tuesday, Oct. 15.—Describing the first days of the new offensive in Flanders the correspondent of the Mail at British headquarters says that the operation has gone ahead with clock-like regularity. The chief German resistance came from the First Bavarian guards reserve and the Sixth cavalry, which fought stubbornly. The correspondent writes as follows:

"The German front line was held strongly. The Bavarians advanced from their trenches in the face of the British barrage and calmly sat by their machine guns. They did all that was asked of them, but they met a famous division which in its charge went clean through and around the enemy and reached the Roulers railroad before the German supports could arrive. Highly valuable ground was thus taken at the outset and bigger objectives were thrown open.

"It is a fact that the enemy has put the most and the best of his men in the front ranks and when these were forced back, the British had much less trouble in advancing.

"German forces at Werwicz and Meun which guarded the right of the British attack, apparently made only slight resistance and surrendered at once. The canal was behind them, and when the British artillery had destroyed the bridges, the enemy troops felt they were being sacrificed and ran toward the British lines.

Before the end of the first day all the principal industrial towns in western Belgium were being threatened. To the north the Germans along the coast are also in peril. During the day there was plenty of evidence that peace was expected by the enemy and that this expectation was operating toward lowering the morale of the

CONFIDENT TURKEY WILL REMAIN "FAITHFUL"

BASEL, Oct. 16.—Confidence that Turkey would remain faithful to the Teutonic alliance, was expressed by Baron Burian, the Austro-Hungarian foreign minister, in the course of a statement to the foreign affairs committee of the Hungarian delegation, according to Vienna advices. He also reassured Austria-Hungary's fidelity to Germany.

"We shall enter upon the negotiations," he said, "closely united with our faithful German ally and with Turkey, which continues to keep her engagement toward the alliance, notwithstanding the difficult situation in which she is placed by the disappearance of Bulgaria.

"I wish to point out as a self-evident fact resulting from this close union of the allies that we shall always regulate our attitude in the approaching negotiations in constant reciprocal agreement with them. If the basis of the agreements to be concluded exist as the result of the acceptance of the points of the program (Baron Burian was evidently referring to President Wilson's program) the application and execution of these diverse points in their practical bearing can nevertheless, give rise to differences of opinion, which we must try to dissipate by cheerfully weighing the opposing point of view and vigorously defending the conditions of our constitutional existence.

"The allies will have to support each other in these discussions. They will have to find in the settlement of litigious questions that line of agreement which will protect their interests from injury."

HOUSE TO HOUSE GRIPPE EPIDEMIC CANVASS

Six schools sent in reports to the high school annex this morning, to Mr. A. D. Mack, who is in charge of the statistical work in connection with the house-to-house canvass which is being conducted by the teachers of Lowell in connection with the grippe epidemic. Those who had completed this recording work were the following: Butler, Bartlett, Morey, Washington, Colburn and Edison schools. The total number of cards turned in this morning was 3000, including the two different styles. Mr. Mack expects that by tomorrow morning there will be in the vicinity of 15,000 reports. There were approximately one-third pink and two-thirds of the white cards in the total quantity at the high school this morning, meaning that two-thirds of the families living in these districts had escaped the prevailing epidemic and were free so far from any sickness in the household.

Many of the high school pupils volunteered to assist in this work and were busy all day making cardboard boxes for the cards, and doing whatever clerical work they could in connection with the filing of the reports. There are 1150 streets in this city, and it is the intention to make out three cards for each street, taking the information from the white and pink cards sent in by the various schools.

Some of the teachers found in their canvass yesterday that the school boys were more than anxious to assist them by acting as interpreters in certain districts where the head of the household was unable to speak the English language. The ground was covered quickly and in a convenient manner with the aid of the school children.

HELP FOR INFLUENZA AND LA GRIPPE

The onset of influenza or la grippe is sudden, the nose, throat and lungs usually being first attacked. Foley's Honey and Tar puts a soothing, healing coating on the rough inflamed throat, clears the mucus, stops the coughing and dry tickling and eases the tightness and hard breathing. It gives a grateful feeling of warmth and comfort and helps from the first dose. Buy it now. Burkinshaw Drug Co., 413 Middlesex street, and Moody's, 301 Central street.

Its registration was 521,474, against the original estimate of 546,187.

The total announced yesterday does not include registrations received by local boards after Sept. 12.

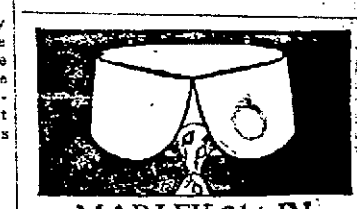

It is believed the actual figure will be approximately 13,000,000. This will be increased by the registrations in Alaska, Porto Rico and Hawaii, which are to take place on later dates recently fixed by the president. With the figures compiled yesterday the total number of men who have been registered in the reservoir of the selective service system since the United States entered the war, including those registered June 5, 1917, last June 5 and Aug. 4 and Sept. 12, is 23,456,021.

No foreign minister has as yet been appointed, the message adds, but Maby Bey, former Turkish ambassador at Rome, is in charge of the foreign ministry ad interim.

Vinol will Stop a Cough and Break Up a Cold

A constitutional remedy that removes the cause by building up the system. These elements contained in Vinol—Beef and Cod Liver Peptones, Iron, Manganese and Glycerophosphates—soon create an energy that throws off the cold and prevents its recurrence. It has given ninety per cent satisfaction for sixteen years. HERE IS PROOF:

Dunn, N.C. "I suffered with a chronic cold for four months, coughed day and night. Had to keep on working when I was not able to. I saw Vinol advertised and tried it, and I want to tell you it just cured that cold in a short time. It made me eat and sleep well, better every day."—J. C. Bagley, Dunn, N.C.

Lagrange, N.C. "For years I suffered with a chronic cough, so I could not sleep nights and continued to lose flesh. My druggist asked me to try Vinol. It cured my cough, I can sleep nights and have gained twelve pounds. Vinol is the best tonic and tissue builder I have ever taken."—W. D. Renz, Lagrange, N.C.

FIGHTING THE INFLUENZA

Not until the various nurses went around to visit the influenza patients were the real conditions throughout the city fully known. The nurses found the most astounding state of affairs. In some cases whole families were found in bed suffering from the disease with nobody to wait on them or to bring them the proper food and nourishment. To assume this duty became the function of the visiting nurses. In many of the families so afflicted not one of them could speak English, so that an interpreter in several languages became a necessity. In many cases a nurse who could speak English and French could not make herself understood to the patients visited. It became necessary to have interpreters in Greek, Polish, Lithuanian and several other languages.

The work of the Lowell Guild and the corps of nurses placed under its control, including the sisters from the parochial schools, is doing all that is possible for the relief of many stricken families. One of the important things to be done in connection with such cases is to provide the patients with nourishing food adapted to their condition. The kitchen conducted by the Saco-Lowell shops is supplying a very large quantity of nourishing soups to be distributed to needy families.

It might be supposed that under our present economic conditions when everybody is supposed to be steadily employed, there should be no poverty anywhere throughout the city. It must be remembered, however, that when a man who has to support a wife and from three to six small children out of his weekly wages, he finds it difficult to meet all the family needs even while at work. But if taken sick he soon finds himself in a state of destitution. Many such cases have been encountered by nurses throughout the city and have received much needed succor through the various relief agencies.

The facts relative to existing conditions should appeal to the owners of automobiles so as to induce them to allow the use of their vehicles for enabling the nurses to get around to all the families that need attention and relief. Agent Mitchell of the Massachusetts mill has worked hard for the success of this movement and he should have the hearty co-operation of all who can afford to loan their autos for such purposes.

It is reported that the epidemic is on the decline, but even should be the fact, it will be many weeks before the families now suffering from the disease will have fully recovered. Many of the patients who have already contracted pneumonia will undoubtedly succumb to the disease, but the attention of the nurses and the relief which they bring to the various families will reduce this number to the minimum. It is a question whether the influenza is in reality on the decline or whether the decrease in the number of cases reported is the result of the preventive measures adopted by the board of health in conjunction with the good officers of the Lowell Guild and all the other agencies fighting the disease throughout the city.

LET THE PEOPLE ANSWER

Now that the German appeal for an armistice on the acceptance of President Wilson's terms has been disposed of and that unconditional surrender can be the only basis for peace, it is in order for every patriotic citizen to put his shoulder to the wheel and help the Fourth Liberty loan to a successful conclusion. To put the loan over the top will be a significant proof of popular approval for President Wilson's patriotic stand against German autocracy and the wanton barbarity which the Germans are practicing on land and sea.

Before President Wilson issued his reply there was some misgiving as to what it might be. Some people thought he might be caught in the German trap, but as in former cases, these critics of the president found that they were mistaken. Now, that the matter is settled and Germany has received her answer from the White House, let another answer go forth from the American people. Let it in due time be announced that the Fourth Fighting Liberty loan has been oversubscribed. That piece of information would convince Germany and her military authorities that the American people stand firmly behind the president for the prosecution of the war to a conclusion that will sweep away the last vestige of German autocracy, German frightfulness and German intrigue.

There can be no doubt that the success of the Fourth Liberty loan will have a far reaching effect in convincing the German people that unless they get rid of the Prussian warlords they can have no peace except through unconditional surrender. It is, therefore, the duty of every friend of freedom who has the money, to subscribe liberally to this loan and thus help the government in promoting the cause of world freedom and democracy.

THE WILSON DIPLOMACY

What it may be asked, has been gained by the interrogatories put to Germany by President Wilson? Simply this, that the real issues between the petitioner of the Bay State, there will be plenty of vacant seats on Bay State cars.

Who would ever have surmised that the name "Hearst" carried with it too much suspicion and bad odor for it to be seen in the company of a respectable and patriotic "movie." It seems to prove that way. Most movie fans are familiar with the feature known as the "Hearst-Pathe Weekly." It has been a good weekly too. But now the Pathe people come forward and say that when the contract they hold with the Hearst International News Service expires, December 21, they will not renew the contract. They expect to rid themselves of what they characterize as the embarrassment of being a partner of Hearst, and the misfortune of having profits cut because customers shy away from the Hearst part of the weekly pictorial.

"Ho, ho, good fellows," says an element in the republican party these days, "look upon my patriotism as somewhat better than anything else of the kind you have seen circulating around these parts. I put the 'pat' and the fighting part in 'patriot.' The blood that my kind of patriots spill is somewhat more red and inspiring than the blood of common, snatched-from-the-street, patriots. In other words, I know I am really holier than thou, but I am at all times ready to let you common 'uns stand around and watch me." This foolish conceit is all that is left of the old ruling regime.

Mayor Thompson recognized merit in promoting a number of patrolmen to the rank of sergeants. He took the men as they stood on the civil service list, thus showing that he is not playing any favorites. His honor has thus offered assurance to the department that merit will count in obtaining promotion. That is the proper incentive to keep before the men of the department at all times. When that rule is violated the morale of the department is lowered and their efficiency to that extent reduced. It is to be hoped His Honor will see that the same rule is carried out by his subordinate officers.

The New York Herald says it has it straight that the present chancellor of Germany, Prince Max, was once an inmate of a madhouse in Bavaria. Fit tool of the kaiser because many of us have always considered the kaiser a "nut." So when Prince Max receives a reply from President Wilson and the German papers say it makes him "mad," there ought to be some distinction as to whether he is provoked or whether the attendants at the foolish house in Bavaria can start dusting out the room Maxey was in the last time he was there.

It becomes increasingly apparent that if they have any shrewdness left, the German people must be about ready to realize that to avoid terrible slaughter with the wealth of the world massed against them and to cast off the yoke of kaiserism the one step needed is to turn their affairs over to the allies. But this cannot be done while the kaiser and his autocrats have charge of the inkstand.

It seems as if it had been a long time since anything was printed showing that something connected with dentistry had been boosted in its price. Now the dentists are making very much of a kick because the gold furnished them to fill teeth is to cost them 10 per cent more than previously. The dentists allege that there is profiteering and possibly there is ground for their contention.

SEEN AND HEARD

Do your Christmas shopping early. Buy Liberty bonds.

So you're in a "fizz" place? Buy more bonds!

Instead of silver lining, the Germans will soon find the clouds are lined with American airplanes.

Old Doc Wilhelm is having a hard time keeping the Sick Man of Europe from complete dissolution.

It was overlooked in the official report, but wonder if some of that famed German efficiency wasn't left behind in the retreat.

Even epidemics have their consolations. "Think of the Thrift Stampwe can buy after three weeks of 'keeping away from crowds.'"

We haven't received any reports of the man who went hungry to buy Liberty bonds. Sometimes the boys over there have to go hungry. Buy more bonds.

"Our enemies cannot and will not succeed. We are under divine protection," says the kaiser. It must be mighty consoling to the German people to know that Bill has Gott's confidence to that extent.

Controlling the Winds

Controlling the winds is not yet an aviation triumph. If an aircraft starts from one point to fly to another due east, and there is a wind blowing 15 miles an hour northeast, that will clearly have to be taken into consideration, and the compass course altered (before ascending), according to the total distance of the journey.

Charging Small Accounts

"Send me a bill," said a man who came into the News office this morning, after leaving an advertisement. The man lives in Beverly, so the postman on the hill would be three cents. Add the stationery and office cost and the expense of forwarding the bill once will be about 10 cents. Then if the bill is not settled promptly, statements will be required.

Many people are careless about paying small accounts, and so it is possible that three or four letters might be required to collect the half dollar.

Other concerns have similar experiences. One man I was talking with about the matter said that a customer called for an article costing 5 cents, and said "charge it." The man was told that he could have the small affair free of charge, because of the expense of bookkeeping would be more than 5 cents. Cash was paid, of course.

The next time you feel like saying "charge it" on a small item remember this paragraph.—Salem Evening News.

Aerial Compasses

Many difficulties had to be overcome in the production of a satisfactory compass for aerial work. Chief among these was that of neutralizing the magnetism of the engine (and in particular the magnet) and of preventing the effect of centrifugal force which caused the card or dial inside the compass to swing in a direction quite independent of north when the aeroplane was banking on a turn. However, a truly excellent compass is now in use.

Guessed His Motive

One evening some time since John Henry called on the darling of his heart, and while talking to the fair one he casually referred to some of the hardships of the present day.

"I see, Gladys," he remarked, "that the price of coal has gone up again, and that it is hard to get at any price."

"Has it?" responded Gladys, without showing any great concern.

"Yes," answered John Henry, "and they say they are also advancing house rents, while sugar—"

"Look here, John Henry," suddenly interjected the fair one, with a withering expression. "If you want to break off our engagement, say so, but don't try to beat around the bush in such a cowardly way."—Philadelphia Telegraph.

The A Sprig o' Yankee Heather

The following poem by Bernard D. Ward, of 198 South street was occasioned by his being made the recipient of a sprig of real Scotch heather grown at West Townsend:

I thank ye John for bringing back
A glimpse o' thier days
In a sprig o' purple heather
From New England's bonnie braes
It mids me o' the dear Lang Syne
Sae sweet in memories ken
When as a lad I used tae roam
O'er hill and dale and glen.

I felt a quickening o' mae pulse
And the tear drops in mae ean
And my heart was lilt in Scotland
Tho' the deep seas rolled between
I could see the golden sunsets
And the bonnie heather bells,
Came a gold and purple mantle
In the waters o' the Fells.

Ye brocht me back the heart and hame
And I kissed the Yankee heather
That binds the auld love wi' the new
In brotherhood together
On battlefields the bond was sealed
Wi' blood o' Scot and Yankee
The purple stream, the heather's gleam
I thank ye John, I thank ye.

Profitable Fishing

Some idea of the business of the poor fishermen off the United States can be formed by the report of the direct and incidental losses when the German undersea boat sank the schooner Robert and Richard off the coast of Maine. That was the best money-maker of the Gloucester fishing fleet, valued at $25,000 and insured for $12,000. The crew had stowed in 30,000 pounds of halibut and 70,000 pounds of many varieties of fish and started the schooner for Boston, when the Hun dog barked off Cash's bank.

The Robert and Richard had earned between $60,000 and $70,000 since Jan. 1 with a crew of 23 men. The vessel and cargo of fish were valued at $35,000, the result of two weeks' earning. That means a schooner earning about $15,000 of net more than $25,000. It looks up to a total of $150,000 a year. Presuming that the crew gets $60,000 of that, or nearly $3000 a year

The Troubles Women Have

BY L. MAC LEAN, M. D.

Probably no man in America was ever better qualified to successfully treat the diseases peculiar to women than Dr. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y. The cases that come to him run into many thousands, giving him an experience that no other doctor can equal. Dr. Pierce found that in nearly every case there were certain vegetable growths which rarely failed to give prompt relief in those feminine disorders from which so many women suffer. He combined these roots and herbs into a temperance medicine that he called Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, for that is precisely what it was. This medicine is sold in both liquid and tablet form by druggists everywhere. Favorite Prescription is a distinct remedy for women and acts directly upon the organs that characterize the sex. It is not necessary to take a long course of treatment with this standard medicine. A weakly, sickly, backache, headachy, nervous, despondent woman, with regular or irregular pains, with feminine disorders that come in cough or indigestion, is pretty sure to find in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription the exact remedy that her condition calls for, and to find it after a very few doses are taken. Why women should allow themselves to stay sick when a very little money spent for this remedy will probably make them well, is something no one can explain.

All women who suffer from feminine disorders are invited to write the Faculty of the Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y., for free confidential consultation and advice, no charge being made for this high professional service. This will enable every woman to benefit by the advice of the distinguished corps of physicians which Dr. Pierce has gathered about him in his celebrated Buffalo Institution.

When constipation is present with feminine disorders, Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets should be taken, along with Favorite Prescription. Try them now!—Adv.

Each, there is a balance of $120,000 on an investment of a trifle more than one-fifth of the earning.—Worcester Telegram.

mine, by handing out what I offer here:

Three days to climb on the band wagon. It's a colossal affair, this band wagon, and anyone who climbs up and has a seat among the bright uniformed musicians, will find himself in the company of patriots and who does that mean? As sure as you're a foot high it means some man, woman or child who has "kicked in" and loaned money to our government by buying a Liberty bond. I regard it as no favor to loan one's money to an institution like the United States government. Our government is too big and powerful an institution with too great and honorable a history for me or me to buy a Liberty bond in a patronizing spirit. You and I can't patronize the United States government.

Is it worth while to buy a bond and have a seat on the band wagon? Well, it should so say, and then some. The person who stays by his lonesome and stays out, is just the same as calling himself a whole show and while on some occasions a one ring circus can get by, one man bands have so far been a failure. It is really worth while on account of the personal self satisfaction it gives to be on the band wagon, hearing the patriotic music, examining and being examined by the and that patriot and, taken all in all, contributing another happy occasion toward so thoroughly ridding Germany of certain royal pests which have not only put that nation practically into a receiver's hands, but at one time threatened to make the entire world a victim of these same royal pests.

I have heard various alibis of persons who desired to stick by themselves and not be bond buyers. I heard of one woman employed in a certain munition plant in this city who told a bond salesman she "just couldn't afford to buy a bond in this loan because she was looking out for her father and mother and she almost had to cut corners to do that." This particular woman is earning more money than any man or woman of her family has ever earned per week for as many generations back as it is possible to correctly trace the ancestral pay envelope. I take no position of saying this woman should neglect her parents for the sake of buying a bond but I will here and now remind this woman of this fact.

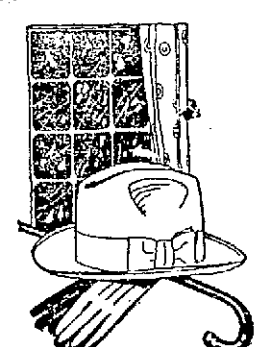

First you have your God, then your country, next your family. God protects our country and we know it. The country—your county and mine—protects the home which shelters the family. None of us ought to feel so securely selfish as to stick by himself and say, "Well, I got to look out for myself and my own. Can't bother about anything else." It's like looking through the small end of a tin horn, that kind of vision. We positively must have some concern about this country of ours. We positively must help finance it and we can only do

CROSSING THE LYS

Allies Sweep On After Taking Menin, While Enemy Continues Retreat

Impressive Scene at Roulers—French Mayor Plays the "Marseillaise" as Shells Fly

WITH THE ALLIED ARMIES IN BELGIUM, Tuesday, Oct. 15.—(9 p. m.)—By the Associated Press.—Menin has fallen. Allied troops are a mile east of Roulers and advanced patrols are, according to latest reports within a mile of Courtrai.

The Lys river seems to have been crossed between Comines, which has been captured, and Warnefont.

Reports indicate that another crossing of the Lys has been effected at Weveica.

South of the zone where the mud-spattered allied troops are fighting their way forward through the rain and the mist and over sticky ground, the enemy has begun a withdrawal. His troops are being moved backward from Pont-a-Huenn and Dordelau and from the northern front. Here British patrols have reached the outskirts of the town of Neuchien.

Enemy defenses of great strength were encountered during the day by the British. There were entanglements of great depth and impenetrable pill boxes which had to be reduced. There was an impressive scene at Roulers when the place was taken. A French major gathered the rescued civilians and German prisoners around a battered piano in the square and as the shells screamed overhead, he played the "Marseillaise."

"Did you ever hear that before?" he asked the people of the city.

The civilians cheered themselves hoarse.

Roulers was in good condition after the German retreat. East of the city the Ingelmunster road has been crossed. The enemy withdrawal southward of the area under attack will involve the whole Lille salient.

Definite information has been received that the Germans removed Spanish and American railcars worth 45,000 francs before abandoning Roulers.

The civilians there ceased rejoicing over their liberation, looking enough to show the French troops where there were some enemy machines which were destined to destroy a large part of the town. They also revealed the hiding places of some Germans.

Tonight's reports indicate that the French cavalry has determined to get through the German lines. It is said they have reached Lichtervelde and are now probably beyond that place.

LONG HEADQUARTERS ARE OPENED IN THIS CITY

The Lowell "Long for Governor" committee has opened campaign headquarters at room 1, Odd Fellows building, Middlesex street. Already plans have been made to conduct an aggressive campaign here in behalf of the democratic candidate.

James P. Heslin of 57 Mt. Grove st., who was in charge of the local campaign in behalf of Candidate Long in the primaries will remain at the helm of local activities in the fight for election. Mr. Heslin's success in the primary campaign brought much favorable comment throughout the state and Candidate Long, himself, sent him a message of gratitude and congratulation on his splendid achievement.

Mr. Heslin plans to organize an effective and representative committee, with various sub-committees, the latter being composed of prominent democrats in all the local precincts.

While Candidate Long has refrained from political activities during the Liberty loan drive in order to devote all his energies toward putting the loan over the top, he plans to conduct a vigorous campaign when the loan drive ends. He will come to Lowell, as will many other prominent speakers from all parts of the state.

The local Long headquarters were opened yesterday and will remain open until election day.

demise of which he was a victim. Undertakers Higgins Bros. had charge. Among those present from out of town were Sergeant Clancy, a brother of deceased and member of the police department of New York city and purchasing agent McKenna of the city of Lawrence.

The death of Officer Clancy was particularly sad owing to the fact that his sister died only two weeks ago. It is believed that loss of sleep and worry about the time of her death, helped bring on his fatal illness. Officer Clancy possessed many noble traits of character, which endeared him to all with whom he came in contact. A man of more than ordinary education and mental brilliancy, he was uniformly kind, genial, courteous and self-sacrificing, loyal in his friendships and always the ready friend of every good cause. His loss is deeply deplored by his associates in the department as well as by all those with whom he came in contact in the course of his daily duties.

CAID OF THANKS

We, the undersigned, wish to express our sincere thanks to all our friends and neighbors in the hour of our bereavement at the death of our beloved

EDWARD O'CONNOR

The following tribute to the memory of the late Edward O'Connor was received at The Sun office today with request for publication.

The many friends of Edward O'Connor throughout the city, were shocked to learn of his death which occurred at his home, 26 Princeton street, Monday, Oct. 14, after an illness of only two weeks.

As he was known to his friends, spent his time in this city, receiving his education at St. Patrick's Boys' School. He was a devoted member of the Holy Name society, a social and welfare work connected with the parish. He was a young man of sterling character, of a distinguished position that was always cheerful and kind he endeavored himself to everyone he came in contact with. His noble generous nature was an inspiration to all who knew him, and to know him was to love him. He was active in all the basket ball games in this city and was a lover of clean sport. He had been coach for the O.M.L. basketball team since it was organized and he had the friendship and confidence and respect of the smaller boys as well as the larger ones. Generous to a fault, he was always eager to extend a helping hand to his fellow men. His ready smile and cheery greeting were missed by his countless friends, who are better for having known such a broadminded, God-fearing young man. He is gone from our midst, but his memory shall live like the perfume of a rare flower.

A FRIEND.

TRIBUTE TO MR. STRATTON

As an expression of sorrow on the death of our departed friend, Herbert Stratton, the operatives of No. 3 mill of the Lowell and Suffolk request the following:

Grim death has claimed a friend of ours.

And one we can't forget. He was a kindly gentleman. His loss we all regret.

His death came as a shock to us. And caused us deepest pain. Oh, may his soul be with the blessed. Where he shall live again.

DON'T WORRY

There is no occasion for panic—Influenza itself has a very low percentage of fatalities, not over one death out of every four hundred cases, according to the N. C. board of health. The chief danger lies in complications arising, attacking particularly the run-down condition—those who don't get to bed soon enough, or those who get up too early.

Spanish influenza which appeared in Spain in May has an appearance of grip or the gripe, which has swept over the world in numerous epidemics as far back as history runs. Hippocrates refers to an epidemic of the air which is regarded by many to have been influenza. Every century has had its attacks. Beginning with 1531, this country has had five epidemics, the last in 1889-90.

THE SYMPTOMS

Grip, or influenza as it is now called, usually begins with a chill followed by aching, feverishness and sometimes nausea and dizziness, and a general feeling of weakness and depression. The temperature is from 100 to 104, and the fever usually lasts from three to five days. The germs attack the mucous membrane of the air passages—nose, throat and bronchial tubes—there is usually a hard cough, especially bad at night, often times a sore throat or tonsillitis, and frequently all the appearances of a severe head cold.

THE TREATMENT

Go to bed at the first symptoms, not only for your sake but to avoid spreading the disease to others—take a purgative, eat plenty of nourishing food, remain perfectly quiet and don't worry. Quinine, if given in the physician's directions to relieve the aching. But there is no cure or relief for influenza. The patient must run his course, but nature herself will throw off the attack if only you keep up your strength. The chief danger lies in the complications which may arise. Influenza weakens the bodily resistance so that there is danger of pneumonia or bronchitis developing and mental depression, which may lead to heart attacks. For these reasons, it is very important that the patient remain in bed until

HOW TO USE VICK'S VAPORUB IN TREATING SPANISH INFLUENZA

The Influenza Germs Attack the Lining of the Air Passages. When VapoRub Is Applied Over Throat and Chest the Medicated Vapors Loosen the Phlegm, Open the Air Passages and Stimulate the Mucus Membrane to Throw Off the Germs.

In Addition, VapoRub is Absorbed Through and Stimulates the Skin, Attracting the Blood to the Surface and Thus Aids in Reducing the Congestion Within.

Old fashioned tug of war is a popular game in all army camps. It has become one of the regular events in army and navy field games. The above photo shows American sailors pulling on a rope in a naval training school.

FOOTBALL IN SERVICE CAMPS WILL ECLIPSE COLLEGE ACTIVITY THIS SEASON

What about football? America's great college game is feeling the teeth of war just as baseball felt it during the summer. Football, of course, will not be stopped, but football as football was known before the war has passed until the nation is on a peace footing. No more expensive training tables. No more hour of practice in the colleges. No more highly paid, highly specialized and highly trained coaching departments. The colleges have gone on a war basis. Football teams are permitted, encouraged, in fact. But with the studies which must be kept up as they never have been kept up before, with the hours of military duty, the practice sessions are reduced to a minimum. An hour a day is about all the coaches may expect. The long intercollegiate junkets of the teams have been cut out. Most teams will be allowed to make one long trip away from home. As a general rule football men will not be allowed more than 24 hours away from their college. This means that the Big Ten, the Missouri Valley, the Southern and the Pacific coast championships will not be decided this year. In the east a number of the large colleges have abandoned football for the period of the war.

The best football of the year will be played by army and navy teams. Already some of these teams have shown remarkable possibilities. The commission on training camp activities has seen to it that every camp has a competent coach. Comparatively long practice periods are allowed.

The men hardened for war are in the best possible physical shape for football. They don't need the preliminary training the college athlete generally has to have to harden up his muscles at the start of the season.

There will be some mighty good football in America this fall, but most of it will be played by men in uniform. PAUL PURMAN.

SAILORS AT GREAT LAKES PLAYING PUSHBALL

THAT ROUGH FOOTBALL IS PUT IN PARLOR CLASS BY PUSHBALL

Remember the sport reformers of a few years back who lamented loud and tearfully the roughness of football and other sports.

Wonder what those same gentlemen would do nowadays if they happened into an army or navy camp and saw some of the games the soldiers and sailors are playing. Football, even the old football of the flying and revolving wedge, has become a parlor game to some of the games these lads are playing. The new games are virile, they demand strength and they cannot be played by men with yellow streaks. And afterward, when these boys go over the top they will realize the benefit of these games.

There is nothing of the parlor game about pushball. In the first place a fellow's got to be pretty husky to do much juggling with the monster ball which is more than six feet in diameter and weighs about 150 pounds. The huge ball is placed in the center of the field. On either side 10 or 15 yards away are equal sides lined up. At the referee's signal both teams charge on the ball.

It's quite likely the big ball will knock down a couple of fellows and plaster them into the mud before it gets up in the air.

Then outside of what the ball is likely to do everyone has to be prepared for the rushing teams which have any football rush ever seen backed off the boards.

Oh, yes, pushball is a nice game, but not for a mollycoddle.

MR. PHILIPPI WILL FURTHER OUR TRADE INTERESTS IN BRAZIL

The investigation of economic conditions and the development of American trade in the largest of the South American republics will be undertaken by Mr. J. E. Philippi, recently appointed American commercial attaché to Brazil, who will leave during the latter part of the month for Rio de Janeiro. Before his departure, Mr. Philippi will confer by appointment at the district office of the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce, 1801 Custom House, with merchants and manufacturers interested in extending their business in Brazil, as well as with those desirous of entering that market. The Boston Export Round Table is also arranging a dinner and smoker of leading manufacturers and exporters at the City Club on the evening of the twenty-fourth.

The new commercial attaché is well equipped for the important duties assigned to him. He spent ten years in Mexico, first in the mechanical and operating departments of the Mexican Central railway and as their agent at Tampico, then with the Waters-Pierce Oil company, and finally with H. E. Corber and company, representing leading American, British and French manufacturers of food stuffs, provisions and allied lines. Mr. Philippi returned to the United States in 1911 and devoted ten months to a study of modern marketing methods while associated with the Corn Products Refining company in the south.

Wishing to take advantage of his knowledge of Spanish and his familiarity with Latin America, he joined Lord Cowdray's Anglo-Mexican Petroleum Products company and investigated bunkering facilities, visiting possible sites in the West Indies and Brazil. The outbreak of the European war halted this development and Mr. Philippi went to London to report on the work accomplished. Shortly afterward he visited New York and was appointed export representative of Borden's Condensed Milk company in South America. Establishing agencies and opening new markets in the principal cities, he traveled extensively throughout the continent, acquiring a valuable fund of information regarding the various countries and their people. Most of the time was spent in Brazil—about seven months of each year—and the unusually wide acquaintance thus gained assures him of a cordial reception in both official and commercial circles. "Although Brazil is very friendly to us, and we reciprocate this feeling, it is surprising how little the people of the United States of North America know about the United States of South America, as the Brazilians are proud to consider themselves," said Mr. Philippi yesterday.

A large exporter of coffee, cacao, rubber, and hides and skins for a long period, Brazil is now becoming prominent for its shipments of membrane sand, carnauba wax, manganese, and chilled and refrigerated meat. There are great possibilities for increased production of oil-bearing kernels and of fibers, especially in the northern part of the republic. A market in which Germany was strongly entrenched before the war, Brazil offers a splendid opportunity today to the exporters of the United States. We feel particularly kindly to Brazil for the important part that it has taken in the conflict, and for its good example to the neighboring republics of South America. With the present friendly relations and with the trade chances now open to us, there is every reason for a vast increase in our sales to Brazilian importers, and a larger part for American investors to assume in the industrial development of the country."

PERCY McKITTRICK GOES FROM SACO-LOWELL SHOPS TO FITCHBURG

After a period of 20 years' employment at the Saco-Lowell shops and Lowell Machine shop, Percy A. McKittrick, of 15 Hawthorne street, has severed his connection with that company and is now assistant treasurer of the Parks-Cramer Co., of Fitchburg. The Parks-Cramer Co. is a recent consolidation of two firms well known in mill circles, the G. M. Parks Co., of Fitchburg and Stuart W. Cramer, of Charlotte, N. C. Starting his career as office boy in the Lowell office of the "big shop" in 1898, Mr. McKittrick was soon transferred to the office of the treasurer in Boston, where he filled a clerical position until 1905, when the Kitson and Lowell shops were consolidated and the treasurer's office force was transferred to this city. Since then he has filled successively the positions of bookkeeper, paymaster, purchasing agent and office manager. In 1913, when the Lowell shops were consolidated with the Saco-Potter machine shops, he was appointed chief accountant, in charge of costs and accounts in all plants and offices of the company, which work he directed from the Lowell office. He was also active in the recent successful reor-

STOP THAT HUN JABBER

Says Woman Who Advises All in This Country to "Speak English"

BY E. C. RODGERS (N. E. A. Staff Correspondent) CLEVELAND, O., Oct. — "Speak English!"

That's the good, wholesome advice Mrs. Isabel Allen Brumit of Cleveland, gives.

It began in the neighborhood where she lives, a section largely populated by persons of German and Austrian descent. Mrs. Brumit went to the grocery store every morning. Other housewives from the neighborhood went too.

"I heard many of them jabber in German," Mrs. Brumit said. "I stood it as long as I could, every day they would come to the store and jabber in German. They jabbered in German past my house. And on the street cars. Finally I got so tired of it that I turned on one German jabberer in the store and said:

"Why don't you speak English?" "I no speak English," she replied. "Well, if you want to stay in this country you should speak English. If you don't want to, why don't you go back to Germany where you'll find plenty of Hans talking German," I told her.

"I no want to go back to Germany. We live here now. But I don't know how to speak English well, so I speak German."

"If you don't know how to speak English," I said, "why don't you learn how. If an American lived in Germany now he'd have to speak German or they'd kill him!"

"Since that day I've noticed that there's less German jabbering going on in that and other stores near here, and they speak English or keep still when they're going by my house. They don't like me, but I should worry. This is America, and if the Germans want to live here they ought to throw out everything German in them and hear American. I wish there was a law forbidding the speaking of German to the youngsters. I have two little boys going to school, but I wouldn't let them go if they taught German. I'd rather move to some other city where they didn't teach German."

Mrs. Brumit suggested that every storekeeper hang up a "Speak English" sign, and that he forbid all his salespeople talking German. She would have "Speak English" signs displayed on all street cars. In all schools, churches, lodges, and on the windows of homes, as a constant reminder to the Hun tongue.

"I know our soldiers when they return will hate the very sound of German words," she added, "and I hope we can clean out every bit of Germanism here before they come back."

thirds allotment for the winter, the committee states.

On Sept. 30 there were only 5000 tons of hard coal, which, even distributed in one-ton lots, would not nearly care for the applications now in. There is plenty of soft coal in town, and no limit to the delivery, and with a little care and patience, this coal will give very satisfactory results in your furnace or boiler. Miss Martina Gage states that she has plenty of wood cut and ready to be hauled to Lowell, but owing to the epidemic her force is so short-handed that up to the present very little has come in.

BUY WOOD NOW AND CONSERVE COAL

The anthracite coal situation here has not improved any in the last week, and the local fuel committee again urges the public to do their best to relieve the shortage by buying wood, of which there is still a plentiful supply. ganization of the Lowell shop, being in charge under the direction of H. L. Gant and R. A. Wentworth during the several years this work was in progress.

About a year ago he resigned as Lowell office manager and was transferred to take up new duties occasioned by the absence of the secretary, Lieut. Howe, who was called to the service, and partly for the purpose of organizing the office end of the foreign sales department, which had grown beyond expectations.

His successor in the foreign department will be J. True Tucker of the Kitson office force. The new chief accountant will be Charles E. Cooke of James M. Abbott & Co., of this city, and more recently with the government in Washington as income tax reviewer.

GIRL HIT BY AUTO NOW ON DANGEROUS LIST

As a result of an automobile accident which occurred Monday night, on the Lawrence road, Miss Vivian Jemery, aged 23, of 40 Beaver street, is now on the dangerous list at the Lawrence General hospital.

Miss Jemery was one of a party returning home in a machine from the down river city about 11 o'clock. The machine was stopped at Stanley's on the Merrimack to fix a tire. During the pause while the work was being done she stepped out of the machine to talk to the occupants of another machine which had stopped nearby. While she was talking a third machine came along at a fast clip and crashed into the one beside which Miss Jemery had been standing, crushing her between the two cars. She was rushed to the hospital in a machine driven by George Lallamie where it was found that several of her ribs were fractured and that she had sustained a puncture of the lungs, and numerous bruises and lacerations about the body. Although placed on the dangerous list, the hospital authorities say she has a fighting chance for recovery. Her condition today was stated to be serious.

Miss Jemery is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Jemery of the above address, and a well known and popular resident of this city. She has been for some time employed in one of the local shoe shops. Her father is a loomfixer and the president of the Loomfixers' union.

DEATH FOLLOWS FALL FROM LADDER

Dr. James Hoban of North Chelmsford was called to administer first aid and he later removed Gibbs to St. John's hospital, where he passed away last evening. Gibbs was injured in the back and also sustained a fractured skull.

Letters From Lowell Soldiers

Corp. C. A. Bernard of the 101st Machine Gun company, now in France, writes as follows to his mother, Mrs. Peter Bernard, 18 Pleasant st.:
Somewhere in the Trenches, Sept. 15.
Dear Mother: Just a few lines to let you know I am fine, hoping all the folks are the same. This makes the fourth day we are on the drive and believe me, we are pushing the Germans back to beat the band. The first two days of the drive were pretty tough; it rained all the time and of course, we had to be out in the day and night, but today and yesterday were fine days, so we are all dried out once more.
Well, we had some experience the other day when we were advancing. The Hunns set fire to all the towns and villages in the vicinity. They burned about 10 or 12 towns and the light from the fires lit up the sky. It was beautiful. We captured about 25,000 Germans the first day. They would come out of their dugouts, throw up their hands and cry "Kamerad." We also got some big guns and went into the German trenches and found bread, butter, eggs, beer, cigars and cigarettes. I got a watch from one German prisoner and some of the boys got diamond rings.
We are now sleeping in woods that were occupied by the Hunns four nights ago. We have been relieved by another division and we are back in reserve. I don't know whether we will go into this drive again, but I hope not.
We keep on driving the Hunns as we have been it will not be long before I will march home to you again. I will close now. Hoping to hear from you soon.
From your loving son,
CHARLIE.
Edward F. Heffernan
Edward F. Heffernan who is now in European waters with the United States naval forces, writes as follows to his mother, Mrs. Peter Bernard, 18 Pleasant st.:
September 5, 1918.
Dear Friends: Just these few lines to let you know that I arrived overseas safely. I have written many letters to friends in Lowell, but have not received any answer. I have visited five countries so far and have seen some wonderful sights. When we left the transport the band played "The Star Spangled Banner" and "La Marseillaise." We had liberty in a great many cities in all of the five countries. We saw many beautiful places.
One funny thing they made blindfolded with large green leaves and had a harness with a pole over its back and was walking around and around. It was pumping water for the gardens. We saw peasants selling all kinds of vegetables and then I have a lot of souvenirs from various countries. I saw some Lowell boys and had dinner with them. I cannot tell you where I have been or where I am now. This is a very warm country.
On Labor day we had all kinds of sports, swimming, running, boat racing, tug-of-war, ball games and seven fights. The Americans took all the prizes except two. They won six of the fights and the Americans scored two knockouts in one hour. I took a prize at 123 pounds. Sam Robedeau, the champion of the navy, knocked out my man in the second round. The British and Americans did all the fighting. Only one Frenchman was in the ring and he made his man quit. They put seven colored boys on one ring, each wearing a glove on one hand and a tin cup in the other. They blindfolded them and they had a great time seeing each other. It was awfully funny.
Only one of my chums has been killed since I have been over here. I wish I could be remembered to my brother members of the Loyal Order of Moose.
EDWARD F. HEFFERNAN.

PRIV. ROSARIO LEBLEU DETROIT BALL CLUB LEADS MISSING IN FRANCE

17 Players in Army, Seven in Navy, and Manager With K. of C.

CHICAGO, Oct. 16.—Recent claims that Cleveland led American league baseball clubs with 18 stars in its service flag, 16 of them representing players in the army, caused President B. B. Johnson to ask each of the eight clubs in the league to give the number of its men in the service. He announced today that the Detroit club was the first to respond with an official list of 17 players in the army and seven in the navy, and a manager going overseas for the Knights of Columbus to promote athletics. With only one man in a shipyard, President Navin of Detroit challenged the major leagues to beat his loyalty percentage. The Chicago club has 16 players in the service, four of them officers, while other clubs in the league are to be heard from.

AUTO GUY WINS CUP RACE AT ATLANTA

ATLANTA, Ga., Oct. 15.—The events in the second day's program of the Grand Circuit meeting here yesterday were decided in straight heats. Baron Chan had an easy time winning the 200 pace in 2:07 1/2, 2:05 1/2 and 2:03 1/2. In the second heat the black horse was pushed down the stretch by Grace Direct and only the decision of the judges could determine the winner. In the other heats Wellwood won as he pleased with his horse. Grace Direct got second money and Windsor Todd third.

The Atlanta Cup, the 2 1/4 class trot, the feature event of the day, was easy for Auto Guy. Murphy drove a heady race. In the third heat the mare broke on the back stretch, but quickly caught her stride, caught Lotta Watts on the last turn and passed her in front of the grandstand. Lotta Watts earned second money and J. W. third.

The 2 1/8 trot was all Boston's from start to finish. His nearest opponent in each heat was Sammy R, which finished second.

REPARATION FOR DAMAGE
COMMITTED BY HUNS

PARIS, Tuesday, Oct. 15.—(Havas)—The French senate today unanimously passed a resolution permitting the government to proceed actively in co-operation with the allies with plans to obtain reparation for damage committed by the Germans. Stephen Pichon, the foreign minister, declared that he has more power to insist on the just claims against Germany. The atrocities which Germany had committed, he added, would have other statements than moral condemnation. "The Germans must be punished sufficiently to prevent forever the possible recurrence of such crimes as the world recently had witnessed," he said.

BOSTON FLYER ESCAPES
FROM HUN PRISON

PARIS, Oct. 15.—The Paris edition of the Chicago Tribune has received dispatches from Switzerland confirming the report that 71 Americans recently escaped from the German prison camp at Villigen, Baden. Only two are reported to have arrived safely in Switzerland. They are Lieut. Isaac, U.S.N., of the U.S.S. President Lincoln, and Corporal Harold Willis of Boston. Willis, who fell a prisoner to the Germans in August of 1917, while a member of the Lafayette escadrille, escaped from the camp on Oct. 4.

BOSTON, October 15.—Harold B. Willis, of this city, whose escape from a German prison and arrival in Switzerland is reported, went to France in 1915 as a member of an American ambulance unit. He joined the French air service in the following year and held the rank of corporal in the Lafayette escadrille. He was graduated from Harvard college in 1913.

The committee will begin hearings next Tuesday with an officer of the army intelligence service on the stand.

Try Magnesia for Stomach Trouble

It Neutralizes Stomach Acidity, Prevents Food Fermentation, Sour, Gassy Stomach and Acid Indigestion.

Doubtless if you are a sufferer from indigestion, you have already tried peppermint, bismuth, soda, charcoal, drugs and various digestive aids and you know these things will not cure your trouble—in some cases do not even give relief. But before giving up hope and deciding you are a chronic dyspeptic, try the effect of a little bisulphate of magnesia—not the ordinary commercial carbonate, citrate, oxide or milk, but the pure bisulphate of magnesia which you can obtain from practically any druggist in either powdered or tablet form.

Take a teaspoonful of the powder or two compressed tablets with a little water after your next meal, and see what a difference this makes. It will instantly neutralize the dangerous, harmful acid in the stomach which now causes your food to ferment and sour, making gas, heartburn, indigestion, headache and the bloated or heavy, lumpy feeling that seems to follow most everything you eat. You will find that provided you take a little bisulphate of magnesia immediately after a meal, you can eat almost anything and enjoy it without any danger of pain or discomfort to follow, and moreover, the continued use of the bisulphate of magnesia cannot injure the stomach in any way so long as there are any symptoms of acid indigestion. For sale at Lippett's, Baker's, Jaynes' Drug Store and other leading drug stores.

REPLY APPROVED
BY BRITISH PRESS

LONDON, Oct. 15.—Declaring that every allied country will endorse President Wilson's note to Germany, the Chronicle says: "There is no closing of the door on negotiation and yet there is no opening for a side-tracking correspondence or a retirement in the silence. There is in the note no pretext for ambiguity or misconstruction."

The Telegraph describes President Wilson's note as "one of the hardest hitting communications ever given out under the form of diplomacy."

The Daily News says: "President Wilson's reply goes with shattering force and directness to the heart of the business. Kaiserism has made the earth a shambles and kaiserism must go as an assurance that the earth shall never be a shambles again. That is the core of the reply."

cial announcement. "These reports carried ample evidence that the country realized the serious business it had ahead during the remainder of this week to make the Fourth Liberty loan a success."

More encouraging reports came today from the Boston, Philadelphia and New York districts, where the influenza epidemic has been checked sufficiently to permit resumption of open air meetings in many localities.

"Paul Revere" Rides

Spectacular methods used in the Cleveland district for the loan included a series of modern Paul Revere rides through 120 towns of thirty-five counties in Ohio and Pennsylvania last night by crews of workers in army motor trucks. The trucks were equipped with aerial bombs, electrical gongs sirens and red fire, while sailors aboard were supplied with shotguns and blank cartridges. Towns were visited after midnight, citizens called out of bed and met at their doors with collectors armed with subscription blanks. About 250,000 in subscriptions were gathered in this way during the night. At Brookline, Pa., the Liberty loan riders were mistaken for bank robbers and put in the village calaboose for three hours. At Georgetown, Ohio, and Jefferson, Pa., the raiding party was fired upon. The ride will be extended to many other communities in the district tonight.

RAISE $11,460,000
IN 10 MINUTES

BOSTON, Oct. 15.—Business men of Boston vied with each other to double and treble their subscriptions to the Fourth Liberty loan at the meeting held yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the Exchange club.

Urged on by Robert F. Herrick, who presided; Henry B. Endicott, president of the Federal Reserve bank; Col. William A. Gaston, Mayor Andrew J. Peters and Daniel G. Wink, president of the First National bank of Boston, subscribers rose to their feet and shouted enthusiastically that they wished to be put down for another $500,000.

Subscriptions from corporations and from individuals came in so fast that the two stenographers were at a loss to get down the names of the men and their amounts. At the end of 10 minutes the total pledged was $11,460,000.

The meeting was called to put before the principal business men of the city the need of subscribing to the loan until the end of the campaign if the district is to reach its quota was emphasized by each speaker. At the conclusion of the three-minute addresses Mr. Herrick, called for speakers from the floor.

A representative from the United Shoe Machinery company said that his company authorized him to double the former subscription of $1,000,000. Then two or three men attempted to subscribe $500,000 each, all at the same time, and within 10 minutes practically every man in the room had added to his subscription.

"BUY NOW" THE
NEW LOAN SLOGAN

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—"Buy now," today became a companion of "double the third," as a slogan in the campaign for the Fourth Liberty loan. With officially reported subscriptions more than $2,045,000,000 short of the six billion dollar total, instructions were sent today to every local campaign committee to impress upon the American public the necessity of buying bonds now instead of waiting until Saturday, the final day.

N. E. LOAN TOTAL
NOW $337,671,000

BOSTON, Oct. 15.—The largest total of any day since the opening day of the campaign was shown in tabulation of yesterday's subscriptions in New England to the Fourth Liberty loan. The amount was announced today by the federal reserve bank as $337,671,000 and brought the district total to date to $337,671,000. Massachusetts contributed $24,470,000, of which $10,745,000 came from Boston. The figures for the other states were: Connecticut $11,165,000; Rhode Island $5,750,000; Maine $2,100,000; New Hampshire $1,040,000; Vermont $304,000. Less than 100 of the 324 banks in the district failed to report.

Several new cities and towns were added to the honor list today, the total of which stood at noon at 493. Of these Vermont had 154; Maine 145; New Hampshire 50; Connecticut 52; Massachusetts 32 and Rhode Island, two.

number of cases that demand immediate hospital treatment, there will be no alternative but to open the final ward of the hospital group.

There have been nine deaths at the hospital to date. One of these occurred this morning. Patients who have been at the hospital 48 hours at least have been able to pull through. The deaths that have occurred have been those of people almost dead when they arrived at the hospital.

Dr. Ekeley reported that a priest was in attendance at the hospital every day. Either Rev. Patrick J. Hally, pastor of St. Columba's church, or Rev. Francis McNeill, his curate, visiting the patients.

The Theatre Managers

At this point representatives of the Lowell Theatre Managers' association entered the room where the meeting was being held. Those present included Benjamin E. Pickett, manager of B. F. Kelly's theatre; Walter J. Nelson, manager of the Merrimack Square theatre; J. F. Sellman, manager of The Strand theatre; R. S. Averill, manager of the Owl theatre, and George Henson, manager of the Royal theatre.

Mr. Pickett said that the Boston theatres had received official notice that they might open next Monday and that he believed this would mean that a great many Lowell people would go to Boston if the local theatres weren't open. Trains would be congested, there would be congestion in the Boston theatres and that would not help out the local situation in the least.

He believed that the board of health might as well allow the Lowell theatres to open. He added that the theatres in Haverhill were to open tomorrow.

Dr. Brunelle—"We're getting reports on epidemic conditions from all over the state. We are concerned principally with the situation here. During the last few days the board of health has noted a decline in the number of cases reported. At this time I don't believe that we are warranted in saying to you gentlemen that your theatres may open on next Monday or any other specified date. In regard to people going to Boston, I can only say that it is hard to control the general public. We can merely make rules and regulations to protect people because people won't protect themselves. They are only human. If, after we make rules, people insist on exposing themselves, then we can't do anything more. To specify any date on which you gentlemen may open your theatres would be impractical at this time. We will do it as soon as we feel it can be done."

Mr. Nelson of the Merrimack Square theatre said: "All the surrounding towns have been hit by the epidemic, either heavier or lighter than Lowell. I think before us, but the theatres there are going to open tomorrow. We closed one day before the Boston theatres and they can open Monday. In the case of the local theatres, we've got to have at least three days' notice before we can open. We can't do it in a day or two. I believe we should have consideration in that respect. I have been in touch with the film exchange in Boston and they say that if we given them three days' notice, they will be able to supply us."

Dr. Brunelle: "You wouldn't want us to let you open now and then have to ask you to close again and put you to needless expense, would you? We would do you a great injustice if things got worse instead of better."

Mr. Nelson—"No, that would react too harshly."

Dr. Brunelle—"As soon as we believe the epidemic to be on the wane, for a certainty, we'll be glad to tell you to open."

Mr. Sellman—"There wouldn't be any chance of saying 'open Monday,' would there?"

Mr. Pickett—"When do you think you will be able to give us definite assurance?"

Dr. Brunelle—"Possibly by the end of this week."

Stores Open

J. Nutini, a tobacco dealer, with place of business at Merrimack and Canal streets, came in at this point and said that he wished to complain about the situation.

DEATHS FROM INFLUENZA EMPLOYE BLAMED FOR WAR PLANT EXPLOSION

6122 in 30 Cities in Week

Ending Oct. 12.—Heaviest

Toll in Philadelphia

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—There were 6122 deaths from influenza in 30 cities the week ending October 12, as compared with 19 the week ending Sept. 14, when the disease got its foothold in New England. In the same period there were 4489 deaths from pneumonia.

These figures announced today by the bureau of census, do not include figures from army camps, and with reports missing from all other cities and towns and country districts there was no way of estimating the total number of deaths.

The heaviest toll from influenza was 1697 in Philadelphia. The New York total was 979, Boston 550 and Chicago 571.

5000 Die in New York in Month

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—More than 5000 persons have died from Spanish influenza and pneumonia in this city within a month, over 50,000 have been ill and the new cases developing during the past 24 hours show a big increase over those reported yesterday, according to the figures given out today by the health department. Fatalities are slowly decreasing, however, the deaths from both diseases being fewer on today's lists than on Tuesday morning.

NEW PRESIDENT OF
CHINA INAUGURATED

PEKING, Thursday, Oct. 10.—(By the Associated Press) Hsu Shi Chang was inaugurated president today in the presence of members of the cabinet and of parliament. A reception followed at which members of the diplomatic corps tendered their congratulations.

A number of local retail cigar and tobacco stores being open after 8.30 at night while his place of business was closed. He said that the police officer on the beat had come to him several times and requested him to close his store at 6.30. He wanted to know if the other stores were to be obliged to do so.

Dr. Brunelle said that the ruling applied to all stores and that it is up to the police to enforce it. Mr. Nutini said that he had complained to the chief of police and later to the mayor. The mayor had sent him to the board of health.

Mr. Drury, of the board of health, said that similar complaints had been coming in for the past couple of days. Dr. Carroll said that the police had been notified of the board's ruling and that if stores are open, the officers on some beats are not doing their duty.

Dr. Brunelle made a motion that the matter be referred to the mayor, but Mr. Drury said that he believed the mayor had already done all there was to be done in the matter. Therefore, the motion was not carried. Adjourned at 12.10.

LONDON, Oct. 15.—Twelve hundred civilians were found in the city of Roulers when the British and French reached the place on Monday, according to the Mail's correspondent at British headquarters. They had been living a more or less normal life there during the German occupation of the city. The correspondent says that it was noticeable that the Germans had put up signs and notices in the Flemish language, which may be an indication of the announced German intention to set up a separate Flemish kingdom.

Schools, Theatres and Saloons
May Remain Closed for Another Week

"At this time I don't believe that we are warranted in saying that we will allow the theatres to open next Monday," was the reply Dr. Pierre Brunelle, chairman of the local board of health gave this morning to representatives of the Lowell Theatre Managers' association when they asked if there was any possibility of the theatres in this city re-opening the first of next week as the theatres in Boston are scheduled to.

Dr. Brunelle said that the reports received by the local board for the past few days were most encouraging, but there had not yet developed any stable indication that the epidemic is over and for this reason precautions should be continued until there is certainty that there is no need for further precaution.

Asked as to when he thought some definite word might be given, the chairman of the board said that the members of the body would be glad to talk over the matter any time, and that there was a possibility that something definite might be forthcoming by the end of this week.

Regarding the school situation, practically the same conditions apply. Supt.
Molloy conferred with Chairman Brunelle today and the result was substantially the same statement as was given in the case of the theatre managers.

The hotels and saloons, it was stated, would be allowed to open when the schools and theatres open.

Big Drop Today

Today's developments in the epidemic were the most encouraging since the epidemic began. Up to noon only 76 cases had been reported. Last Wednesday the total for the day was 171 and the preceding Wednesday 140. The total number of cases to date is 5676.
Eight deaths were reported this morning, making a total of 245.

Two-Hour Session

This morning's meeting of the board of health lasted for nearly two hours.
All the members of the board were present and also Dr. C. E. Simpson, state health officer, and Dr. C. R. Eskey, the federal officer in charge of the isolation hospital.

Dr. Eskey reported that to date 61 patients have been treated at the hospital and five more were due to arrive today. Yesterday 12 patients were discharged as cured and two died.
Twelve new patients were admitted.
At the present time, he said, there are eight vacant beds for women and plenty for men. He has transferred convalescent patients from the hospital wards into the administration building and this has given more room.

The doctor said that he believed there were sufficient accommodations to take care of all patients who would be sent to the hospital within the next few days, without opening the third ward of the hospital group. If this ward is to be opened, he said, it would mean that three more trained nurses one for night and two for day, would have to be secured. Dr. Simpson said that he would be able to get at least one trained nurse.

Dr. Eskey said that 20 more beds will be needed if the third ward is opened and after communicating with Mayor Thompson, it was found that these could be readily secured.

Hun Reserves Hurled Into Battle
The Germans are pouring fresh troops into the struggle in the hope that the American onslaught may be stayed before it reaches the important railroad lines in the rear of the German front. A victory for the Americans in the Argonne sector would compel a general retreat by the enemy from the most of the French ground he still holds.

FRENCH PASS SISSONNE

French and Italian troops are moving more slowly along the line from the Oise to the Aisne than they did on Sunday, when they wiped out the greater part of the Laon-La Fere salient. From all accounts, the Germans are gradually emptying the pocket formed when the allies broke the lines north of St. Quentin and along the Aisne at Berry-au-Dac.

The French, however, have passed Sissonne, formerly one of the principal concentration points for German troops in this part of the front. General Gouraud's army has crossed the Aisne west of Rethel.

Germans in Another Pocket
This advance makes the position of the enemy further east perilous.
As the progress of the French in this region continues, the Germans in the Champagne sector seem to be slowly involved in another pocket such as has often forced a rapid retirement on various sectors of the line.

HUGE WAR PLANS HUNS GET REPLY

Immediate Consideration of Bill Carrying $6,345,755,-
000 Given by House

Army of 5,000,000 Men, 80
Divisions in France and 18
Training Here by July 1

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—Immediate consideration was given by the house today to the military deficiency bill carrying $6,345,755,000 reported by the appropriations committee to provide for the enlarged war program during the coming nine months. Leaders said the measure would be passed tomorrow.

An army of about 5,000,000 men, 80 divisions in France and 18 in training at home by July 1, next, is what the new program calls for. To prepare and maintain it the amount now proposed is sought in addition to seventeen and one-half billion dollars provided by the annual army bill and the fortifications bill. It will bring the total of appropriations and authorizations for the year up to $36,000,- 000,000.

Gen. March, appearing before the committee when the bill was drafted, described it as the "maximum effort for a definite maximum performance."
He pointed to the moral effect of such a measure.

"It is the best propaganda in the world for Germany," he said, "because they cannot keep their people from knowing that the United States is putting these billions of dollars into the war. It is a concrete tangible thing and is very important from that standpoint. They know they are becoming impoverished. They know they are settling down to bed rock and here is a nation throwing its whole strength into it."

Legislative features of the bill include a section authorizing President Wilson to establish a war salvage commission which would recommend to congress what disposition shall be made of property acquired by the government during the war.

The powers of the shipping board would be increased so as to authorize extension of the facilities of shipyards, dry docks, marine railways and piers.

Authority is granted to the war department to use $250,000 in developing agricultural activities on land controlled by the army.

More than half of the total of appropriations and authorizations carried in the bill is for the ordnance department to permit the ordnance needs until Dec. 31, 1919, to be planned by the war department.

Gen. Horney, head of the ordnance bureau, told the committee that the new program called for 14,600 new guns for the increased artillery.

The local evening newspaper is the paper that reaches the home when the whole family is there to read it. The Sun fills this field in Lowell.

Panic in Berlin Banking Circles—War Lords Decide to Raise Military Age

LONDON, Oct. 16.—President Wilson's reply to the German peace note produced "a most unfavorable impression" in Berlin, says a Central News despatch from Amsterdam today. The publication of the reply, it adds, was followed by a panic in Berlin banking circles and on the stock exchange.

The German supreme command, the advices state, will come to Berlin at the end of the present week "to deof the national strength and the raising of the military age."

WILSON'S REPLY
REACHES BERLIN

BASEL, Switzerland, Tuesday, Oct.
15.—President Wilson's reply to the German peace proposals reached Berlin at noon today. It had not been given to the German public, however, up to 3 o'clock tonight.

EXPECT MAX TO MAKE DECISION TODAY

LONDON, Oct. 16.—It is expected that the German imperial chancellor will make a decision today on the matters contained in President Wilson's latest note, says a despatch from Copenhagen to the Exchange Telegraph Co.

The German newspapers point out, the message adds, that President Wilson's note had the effect of a cold douché on the hopes for peace "engendered by his first note. Some of the newspapers comment on the note in the sharpest terms and with unbridled words, adding that the "language of President Wilson now has become excited after the conferences he has had with the Allies."

GRIPPE INCREASES IN WESTERN CITIES

BOSTON, Oct. 16.—Reports received today by the state department of health from 108 cities and towns showed that the influenza epidemic death toll for the 24 hour period ending at noon was 236, with 5951 new cases. These figures indicated that the situation was about the same, taking the state as a whole, as yesterday.
While conditions were improving in Boston and vicinity, the epidemic was on the increase in the western part of the state and gave little signs of abatement in the eastern mill cities.

The number of deaths in Boston during the specified period were 87 with 218 new cases. Yesterday the deaths and new cases were 94 and 337, respectively. Fall River reported 537 new cases, and Springfield 106 new cases and 18 deaths.

BEST INFLU CURE

Dr. Brooks Says Air and Sunshine Kill the Spanish Influenza Germ

Predicts Mild Recurrence of the Epidemic During Next Two Years

BOSTON, Oct. 16.—Dr. William A. Brooks, surgeon general of the Massachusetts state guard, who has made an exhaustive study of the influenza and pneumonia epidemic, in conjunction with others, last night made public the results of the studies and observations of the little group of experts who were in constant attendance on the 351 patients treated at the Brooks Open-Air hospital, Corey Hill.

"In my humble opinion," said Dr. Brooks, "the study of this epidemic will revolutionize the construction of hospitals for medical diseases, and I am willing to make the forecast that, in the next 10 years, in treating medical diseases with more surgical technique we will have as great an advance in medicine as there has been in surgery during the past 10 years, provided the medical profession learns its lesson from this epidemic and does not go on in the old routine."

Tent Hospital Big Success

"Five weeks ago Monday I went to the ships of the United States shipping board, of which I was appointed director of the war recruiting service, and found that Dr. Croak had plenty of trouble. I knew that the influenza bacillus was abroad, but I had never seen any cases just like those that we found on these ships."

"Patients were lying about on the decks, and I suggested to Director Henry Howard of the shipping board that we start a tent hospital. With the permission of the adjutant general, who furnished members of the state guard, we started the tent hospital."

"The first tent was pitched at 5.30

WAR AND MEDICINES

What Many of the Sick and Ailing Are Learning Nowadays.

So many doctors have gone to war, the services of comparatively few are available at home.

Good proprietary medicines are more widely used than ever, and more and more people are finding out how great their merit is.

At this time, when there is greater need of economy than ever before, Hood's Sarsaparilla, a thorough blood purifier, Peptonin, a real pepton-nut-iron tonic, and Hood's Pills, a potent yet mild cathartic, are especially good and liked by all who use them.

These medicines are remarkably efficient, whether taken in conjunction or separately.

Dr. R. H. KLINE CO., Department 8, Red Bank, N. J.

and by midnight the same night we had 38 patients at Corey Hill. There is nothing in medical literature which would furnish light on the points we found at the open-air camp. We took in all 351 of the worst cases of the 1200 or more aboard the ships, and while the cases were not bad at first we did get some pneumonia cases.

"The first lesson we learned was that the worst cases came from the parts of the ship where the circulation was the poorest, from the holds, where the men were crowded in like sheep. That discovery really gave us our first clue as to the treatment of the cases as a preventive. If the air was good, we discovered, the cases were not so apt to be infectious.

"The next point we learned was that drugs that we were accustomed to use to affect the heart had no effect whatsoever. Then we received reports from the autopsies made on victims at the Naval hospital. They showed that in nearly every instance the heart was perfectly normal, but that the lungs were filled with pus cavities and that the area of the lungs exposed to take in oxygen was tremendously reduced, so that those men died, not because their hearts went back, but because they couldn't get enough air. They simply drowned. The answer was to put them out where they could get air, all the air there was. Even a sun-parlor, we learned, was not as good as putting the patients out in the open in coats.

Good Tests of Little Value

"The results were startling. A lot of men began to come back and the pneumonia victims commenced to get well. Meanwhile, we were carrying on studies and we took the blood, but it didn't show anything of value. Next we took the sputum and also took swabs from the nose and throat and we found we had what is known as a mixed infection, the principal bug being the influenza bacillus, and mixed with him we had the pneumococcus. Of the pneumococcus we found 2 types principally, type 1 and type 3. Type 1 is of the pus producing character and when he gets into the body and lungs he helps produce pus cavities found in the lungs. He also helps produce the streptococcus.

"We found from examination of sputum that we could make a diagnosis of pneumonia before we could hear the signs in the chest. Then we found another startling thing and that was by putting all the patients out in the sunlight the temperatures, without exception almost, were lower at night than in the morning. We knew from other men's work that sunlight kills the influenza bug very quickly.

"As another and further proof of the combined efforts of 14 different men, working together to do what they could to prevent the spread of the epidemic—personally I do not claim any credit; the discoveries that have been made are the results of a system and not of any one man's idea—we found that as far as medication is concerned a little Dover's powder for pain, some form of aspirin to make the blood a little more antiseptic and a little iodine of lime to relieve the feeling of pressure in the chest, were about all that was effective. These drugs, combined with plenty of air and sunshine, when you can get it, greatly reduce the mortality.

"To substantiate these theories we learned that 300 radio boys from Commonwealth Pier have been camping at the Framingham camp grounds for several weeks. At first we were skeptical about the efficacy of such a test, because of the men being in such close contact, but at last reports only one man reported for sick call, and he complained of a burned foot.

"Another very important and significant discovery in connection with the epidemic is that Roseneau has been working over and with these bugs, examining them and stewing them, and all he has used as a preventive is a mask so made that the gauze does not touch his mouth or nostrils. In addition, he simply washed his hands frequently in a solution of 1 to 1000 corrosive sublimate. He hasn't contracted the disease.

"The value of the mask is simply to act as a filter—to filter the air—and this is proven by the fact that you can take a solution of the bugs and let that solution run through an ordinary filter paper and Roseneau states that it has been impossible to find bugs in the liquid that runs through. It is much better to burn all gauze masks after using them two hours. To sterilize them means that the fuzzi disappears and the gauze is not so good a filter as before.

"Even the doctors and physicians who have worked so energetically and courageously throughout the epidemic are not absolved from some criticism. We have known doctors to wear masks in hospitals, but in treating their private patients they refrained from doing so because they took it for granted that the homes were clean or else they did not wish to offend their private patients. How in the world can a physician expect the poor people to do what they themselves do not do?"

Younger Men Most Susceptible

"It has been said that men of 45 are not as susceptible to the disease as those younger. In a measure this is true, but only insofar as he must be tough and possess tremendous powers of resistance to have reached 45 anyway.

"Because of what we have discovered of the value of fresh air and sunshine as a curative and preventive, I have no fear of the disease getting into our army in the field. Parents and relatives of our boys in France need have little fear of their becoming victims while they are out in the open air and sunshine.

"Here in the United States we will have a repetition of the epidemic next year, in fact for the next two years, but the recurrence will be milder in 1919 and much more so in 1920. We have already discovered that some of the afflicted who have been pronounced cured still retain the germ. They are carriers and through them the disease will break out anew next year, but it will be in a much milder form, but if we don't learn our lesson now and be ready another year we will have our troubles as we are having them now."

MAYOR THOMPSON BIG HIT IN THE MOVIES

The Sun is in receipt of a communication from The Hudris Film Co. of New York stating that the local moving picture, "A Romance of Lowell," made by them under the auspices of the Owl Theatre with Mayor Perry Thompson, Elvira B. Loung, Roy Moulton and little Katherine McRann featured as stars and the rest of the cast made up entirely of boys and girls of our city is completed and ready to be shown at the Owl Theatre as soon as that theatre throws open its doors to the public.

A private showing of the film was made on Oct. 12th at the laboratory of the Hudris Co. and their communication says that the film is artistically beautiful from a photographic standpoint and that the work of Mayor Thompson as William Atherton (supposed owner of the Merrimack mills) is going to make everyone in Lowell sit up and take notice for the Hudris Co. says that any time the mayor feels like making a jump from politics to the movies he will find many companies eager for his services. Quoting the Hudris Co.'s letter, Mayor Thompson is one of the few persons in our experience who registers a really wonderful charm of personality on the screen and in this, his first effort at moving picture acting, he brings such an intelligent understanding to bear that any one who did not know him would pick him out as a professional of long experience. The Hudris Co. does not go into detail about the others in the cast except to say, "It is the best acted amateur film ever made" so with such a recommendation the people of Lowell will anxiously await its showing. As previously announced the Owl Theatre is not going to raise the prices of admission for "A Romance of Lowell." The prices are to be 10 and 20 cents so that everyone can see it. However, there will be two performances in the afternoon and two at night in order to accommodate the crowds. The time schedule will be announced in the Owl Theatre advertisement when "A Romance of Lowell" is shown.

THIN BLOOD AFTER ATTACK OF INFLUENZA

Until This Fall River Woman Built Up Her Blood No Medicine Helped Her

An attack of influenza, even of the milder form commonly called the grip, may mean a lifetime of misery if proper precautions are not taken to restore the blood and drive out the lingering poisons that cause the so-called "after-effects" of the disease. The grip leaves behind it weakened vital powers, thin blood, impaired digestion and over-sensitive nerves—condition that makes the system an easy prey to pneumonia, bronchitis, rheumatism, nervous prostration and even consumption.

An attack of the grip left Mrs. Esther Gorse, of No. 137 Oliver street, Fall River, Mass., in an anemic condition and until she took Dr. Williams' Pink Pills no medicine helped her.

"I was all tired out and my blood was very thin. I had but little ambition to work and felt mean all the time. My stomach was very weak and I had no desire for food. Several headaches became very frequent. A friend of mine who had been helped by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills suggested them to me and one box proved them to be the remedy I needed. My appetite returned and soon I felt stronger and better in every way.

"Each spring I use Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and they always build me up and give me strength.

"My son was weak after an attack of the grip and I gave him Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They helped him at once. I always recommend these pills as I know from experience that they are a valuable tonic."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills contain the elements necessary to make new blood and, as the nerves get their nourishment from the blood, have been found invaluable in a wide range of diseases of the blood and nerves, such as rheumatism, after-effects of the grip and fevers, neuralgia and nervous debility.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists, or will be sent by mail, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box; six boxes, $2.50, by the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y. A booklet, "Building Up Thin Blood," will be mailed free to any address upon request.—Adv.

TO BLOW UP CATHEDRAL

Rapidity of Allied Advance Foiled Hun Plan to Dynamite St. Quentin Edifice

PARIS, Tuesday, Oct. 15.—When allied troops entered St. Quentin they found that every pillar in the cathedral there has been excavated at the level of the ground, preparatory to placing explosives under them, according to the Liberte. The rapidity of the allied advance prevented the Germans from carrying out their plan to destroy the edifice.

REVOLT IN BOHEMIA

PARIS, Oct. 16.—Meetings called by the Czecho-Slovak council at Prague to protest against the export of foodstuffs from Bohemia resulted in a general strike which is developing into a revolt, according to a despatch from Zurich to today's Paris newspapers. Martial law has been proclaimed throughout the country and German and Hungarian troops are occupying Prague, Pilsen, Pisek and Tabur.

LONDON, Tuesday, Oct. 15.—A general strike has been called in Moravia and Bohemia, and great demonstrations in favor of an independent state have taken place at Prague, according to a Zurich despatch. All theatres and places of public meeting have been closed. Deputies are said to have declared in speeches that the final phase of the Czech revolution is begun.

HUN TROOPS SIDE WITH REBELS IN UKRAINE

STOCKHOLM, Oct. 16.—Insurrection is spreading in the Ukraine and recently extended throughout the government of Podolia, according to despatches received by the Politken. At several places, it is reported, the German troops are siding with the rebels.

Several thousand troops are declared to have hoisted the red flag near Ekaterinoslav, and to have killed their officers. They are now marching on Kharkov to join the revolutionary soldiers who hold the town.

A peasant force of 5000 men, with machine guns and cannon, is moving on Pottava.

WOMAN'S HAND MIRROR SAVED 50 LIVES

LONDON, Oct. 9.—(Correspondence of the Associated Press).—A woman's hand mirror was the means of saving 50 lives from the torpedoed liner Galway Castle. Among the survivors on a raft was a woman who took from her handbag a small mirror and suggested one of the sailors use it for making heliographic signals.

The attempt was made and the signals brought up a destroyer at full speed which took of the survivors from the raft as well as a number of sailors clinging to wreckage.

12,000 AT SHIP PLANT

Big Force Turning Out Ships With Great Speed
at Newport News, Va.

NEWPORT NEWS, Va., Oct. 16.—Now shipways, towering trestles, spreading shops, fields of steel and the incessant clamor, day and night, of automatic riveters, great steam hammers and whirling machinery are the symbols of war-time shipbuilding here where deep sea craft have been turned out since the '80's.

In this great plant 12,000 men and women are working at top speed. Sliding quietly from the ways, without a semblance of the ceremony that attended launchings in the days of peace, ship after ship has been built and floated only to lose itself in the maze of commerce as this gateway to the Atlantic and to the fields of France.

When the war-time history of the Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock company is written, it will be an interesting chapter in the romance of the destroyer. It will tell how farner have from the rolling plains of the west, who had never seen a ship, and women whose only experience with metals had been in the handling of pots and pans, answered the call of their country to build many of the destroyers which steadily are removing the menace of the submarine and keeping open the lanes through which the millions of American soldiers are going to the western front.

How well these men and women have done their work under the guidance of skilled workers, is demonstrated by the fact that every destroyer turned out has more than met the express-train speed required under the navy contract. And it is no secret, at least not here, that the finished ships which have gone into the war zone have given a good account of themselves even as the planning and other pre-war products of this yard have added new laurels to American naval records.

While all possible energy is going into the building of the "bridge of ships" to France and their guardians, the expansion of this plant into one of the world's greatest shipyards is planned for after-the-war needs as well as for those of the present. Shop after shop has been built and cranes and other labor saving devices installed so that when peace comes foreign yards may be met in the great race that is inevitable for the restoration of destroyed tonnage.

Even now there are in the building two of the largest shipways in America. Here, after the war, will be laid down the monster battle cruisers congress authorized in 1916, designed as the fastest and most powerful ships of their type on the sea.

Nearby these new ways four emergency ways have been thrown up on ground "made" within the year. On these emergency ways naval vessels are being built and more will follow when they are launched. A few hundred yards away more fighting ships are building, two and three to one set of ways. On still other stocks, merchant ships and other craft are being put together.

Turbines largely have supplanted the old-style reciprocating engine and it is on these that women have been pressed into service, performing the delicate work of finishing the myriad brass puddles against which the steam strikes to revolve the turbine drum, much as water runs a mill wheel.

In the yard dispensary, where men who are injured are treated, nurses and doctors are constantly on duty. A hand gives concert in the yard each noon.

Housing has been the greatest problem. Two miles beyond the city on a high bluff overlooking the river is rising a new city to be peopled exclusively by shipyard workers. High wages are the rule as at other yards, with riveters, many of them negroes, making as high as $23 and $30 a day. Loyalty is preached in season and out.

In peace times this yard completed merchant ships in six months or less, but it is bettering that now even, as it has more than met in half the time for turning out destroyers. Officials and workmen alike have ever before them on a bronze tablet set in the side of a stone column the words of the founder of the yard, the late Collis P. Huntington, master railroad and ship builder in the nation's pioneer days: "Here we will build good ships; and a profit if we can, at a loss if we must, but always good ships."

Thirty Feet of Danger

The intestinal canal is an important part of every individual, important every inch of its thirty feet. The upper portion of it is intended for the digestion of food and absorption of its useful portions. But the lower part is concerned with the elimination of waste material.

It is, in other words, the great sewer of the body. The more food eaten, the greater the waste. If a sewer becomes clogged up, its contents stagnate and become more and more dangerous.

Constipation means more than failure to evacuate the bowels regularly and thoroughly. It means stagnation, increased fermentation, putrefaction and germ action. Increased amounts of irritating and poisonous substances are formed. Absorption of these into the blood follows. Self-poisoning results.

Danger, disorder, disease, or even death follow.

Pills, purgative mineral waters, castor oil, salts, etc., do not cure constipation or prevent its consequences. They make it worse because they do not only irritate the bowels, but they "wear out" in effect and so must be taken in increasing doses, making constipation a habit.

But the Nujol Treatment for Constipation overcomes constipation by helping Nature re-establish easy, daily, thorough bowel evacuation as "regular as clockwork."

Nujol prevents stagnation and self-poisoning.

Nujol forms no habit, except a natural, healthy habit.

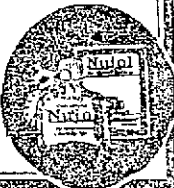

After Nujol has trained the bowels to act, it can be dispensed with.

FIBBED WHEN HE SAID HE BELONGED HERE

That the hard luck stories which police and other officials frequently have to listen to are not always the truth, a recent case which was brought to the attention of the Lowell Humane society will prove.

A few days ago, the Lowell agent of the society received a message from the society for the prevention of cruelty to children of New York City, asking him to try and locate the parents of one Henry Dirona, aged 5, who had given his address as 842 Perry street, Lowell, and who was then suffering from a fractured skull, and had been placed on the dangerous list at the Bellevue hospital.

The story as told to the New York police by the boy ran about as follows: He had left Lowell one year and eight months ago, where he had resided with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Dirona, at the aforementioned address. His father, he stated, was the proprietor of a cigar shop here. As regards his life in the big city, he had been willing to work for a living, and made his home at a rowdy hotel called the Oriental.

He had a short time before made the acquaintance of a young man 18 years of age, name unknown, who had induced him to steal some pigeons from a 6th avenue residence. He was caught in the act by the owner, who struck him on the head with a hammer. Strenuous efforts were made by Agent Dirona, and also by the local police to locate the boy's parents and inform them of their son's condition, but to no avail. The annuals of Perry street could give out no information regarding the Dirona family, past or present.

Shortly after the agent had given the task up as hopeless he received a second communication from the New York society, saying that the boy's story was a complete fabrication from beginning to end, and that according to his later story, his name was Nunzio Ciricione, and his real home in Brooklyn, N. Y.

LICENSE BOARD GIVES HEARING ON CHARGE AGAINST HOTEL MAN

Hugh F. Allen of the St. Charles hotel was given a hearing by the license commission at the regular meeting of the commission late yesterday afternoon on the complaint filed by Supt. Welch for illegal sale of liquor, and at the close of the hearing the commission took the matter under advisement.

In the course of the hearing it was testified by Lieut. Petrie and Inspector Winn of the liquor squad that on Labor day they found men drinking in a side room of the hotel and that the men had not been served food. They claimed that after Mr. Allen's attention was called to existing conditions he later closed that section of the building.

Mr. Allen said that on that day there was an unusually large crowd in that district of the city because of the parade, and because of the absence of three of his regular employees he was obliged to take in new help. He said the new men were not familiar with the regulations, despite the fact that they had been informed of the necessity of observing the laws.

Mr. Allen said that when his attention was called to conditions he immediately closed the room. William A. Hogan appeared for Mr. Allen, while Supt. Welch conducted the case for the government.

A western senator who loves a good joke a few days ago stated to some of his personal friends at the capitol an amusing incident that happened recently in his own family.

"Shortly after we came to Washington my wife's hair began to turn gray," the senator said. "I never saw anyone so distressed as Helen was. She fretted every time she looked into a mirror, and the more she fretted the grayer she grew."

"She took it so to heart that I suggested that she dye her hair, but she wouldn't listen to that. I suggested a wig, but that wouldn't do either. 'When we went out west for the summer, someone told her about a preparation called Q-Ban Color Restorer. When she was convinced it wasn't a dye, she tried it, and sure enough the gray hairs began gradually to disappear. By the time we were ready to return to Washington, she actually looked 20 years younger.'

"We went to the hotel where we frequently stop, and my wife happened to walk up to the desk with me. The clerk was an old friend of mine, and he nearly knocked my breath away when he said: 'Senator, would you like a connecting room for your daughter?'—Adv.

American Forces Meet Desperate German Resistance Near Romagne

Under Heavy Fire All Day—

Take Positions and Gun Nest by Encircling Them

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY NORTHWEST OF VERDUN, Oct. 15, 8.30 p. m. (By the Associated Press)

In the face of the most stubborn resistance conceivable, including literally hundreds of machine gun nests, the Americans advanced again today and widened the breach in the Kriemhilde line.

The Germans heavily shelled the center and left center of the American line, and desperate counter attacks were carried out. These counter attacks failed.

The Americans, who captured Hill 299 and penetrated the strong wire defenses between Flanders at St. Georges and St. Georges, have passed St. Juvin.

Awful Gunfire

The American gains in general were accomplished through persistence of the strategic policy of surrounding the objectives, rather than storming them. The machine gun filled woods and heights lying in the path of the American advance were taken for the most part by going around them on the left and right and joining forces again on the north side and cleaning up the area thus encircled.

The day's fighting began early, when the center moved forward and encircled the difficult position at Hill 288, from which a machine gun fire, estimated as coming from at least 200 guns concealed in the adjacent woods, was poured into the Americans. The patrols pushed forward, despite the enemy opposition, into the Bantheville woods.

Advance to Bantheville

Hill 286 was taken early notwithstanding a withering machine gun fire and a deluge of gas shells which compelled the Americans to fight for hours with their gas masks adjusted. They also encountered vast quantities of wire which had not sufficiently been cut by the artillery and sustained an enfilading fire from both sides.

A big fight ensued for the strategic Cote de Châtillon which commands the terrain northward and which was attacked by the encircling method. The Americans taking the Tullerries farm to the northeast. This farm was taken under artillery fire by both the Germans and Americans late this afternoon and for a time remained No Man's land.

The American advance at this point involved the capture of Le Mansard farm and infiltration through the wire guarding the Sommerance-Landres road. The opposition against the right center of the Americans grew less in the afternoon, so that patrols were able to push northward and westward to gain a sure footing in Bantheville and Bantheville wood.

No Belief in Peace

Perhaps the most interesting development of the day was the fact that the Americans and the Germans, too, fought with a fierceness, stubbornness and tenacity utterly belying any belief that their part in peace is a matter of the near future. The Americans are almost unanimous that the German proposals are insincere, and that whether sincere or not, the enemy must be severely punished. Many with whom the correspondent talked during the tour of the most active portions of the front, seemed to take the attitude that they had perhaps only a little time in which to strike the enemy and wanted to make the most of it.

Despite the rain which streamed down all day from low-hanging clouds the American aviation corps again performed wonderful work in assisting the infantry, flying constantly at an altitude below 600 meters. The aviators efficiently directed battery work, made reconnaissances, kept the infantry in touch with headquarters and brought in valuable information.

Correspondent Describes First Days of New Allied Offensive in Flanders

Allies Smash Through Bavarian Guards and Cavalry and Win All Objectives

LONDON, Tuesday, Oct. 15.—Describing the first days of the new offensive in Flanders the correspondent of the Mail at British headquarters says that the operation has gone ahead with clock-like regularity. The chief German resistance came from the First Bavarian guards reserve and the Sixth cavalry, which fought stubbornly. The correspondent writes as follows:

"The German front line was held strongly. The Bavarians advanced from their trenches in the face of the British barrage and calmly set up their machine guns. They did all that was asked of them, but they met a famous division which in its charge went clean through and around the enemy and reached the Roulers railroad before the German supports could arrive. Highly valuable ground was thus taken at the outset and bigger objectives were thrown open.

"It is a fact that the enemy has put the most and the best of his men in the front ranks and when these were forced back, the British had much less trouble in advancing.

"German forces at Werwieg and Meun which guarded the right of the British attack, apparently made only slight resistance and surrendered at once. The canal was behind them, and when the British artillery had destroyed the bridges, the enemy troops left they were being sacrificed and ran toward the British lines.

Before the end of the first day all the principal industrial towns in western Belgium were being threatened. To the north the Germans along the coast are also in peril. During the day there was plenty of evidence that peace was expected by the enemy and that this expectation was operating toward lowering the morale of the

BASSEL, Oct. 16.—Confidence that Turkey would remain faithful to the Teutonic alliance, was expressed by Baron Burian, the Austro-Hungarian foreign minister, in the course of a statement to the foreign affairs committee of the Hungarian delegation, according to Vienna advices. He also reasserted Austria-Hungary's fidelity to Germany.

"We shall enter upon the negotiations," he said, "closely united with our faithful German ally and with Turkey which continues to keep her engagement toward the alliance, notwithstanding the difficult situation in which she is placed by the disappearance of Bulgaria.

"I wish to point out as a self-evident fact resulting from this close union of the allies that we shall always regulate our attitude in the approaching negotiations in constant reciprocal agreement with them. If the basis of the agreements to be concluded exist as the result of the acceptance of the points of the program (Baron Burian was evidently referring to President Wilson's program) the application and execution of these diverse points in their practical bearing can nevertheless, give rise to differences of opinion, which we must try to dissipate by cheerfully weighing the opposing point of view and vigorously defending the conditions of our constitutional existence.

"The allies will have to support each other in these discussions. They will have to find in the settlement of ill-given questions that line of agreement which will protect their interests from injury."

HOUSE TO HOUSE GRIPPE EPIDEMIC CANVASS

Six schools sent in reports to the high school annex this morning, to Mr. A. D. Mack, who is in charge of the statistical work in connection with the house-to-house canvass which is being conducted by the teachers of Lowell in connection with the grippe epidemic. Those who had completed this recording work were the following: Butler, Bartlett, Morey, Washington, Colburn and Edison schools. The total number of cards turned in this morning was 3000, including the two different styles. Mr. Mack expects that by tomorrow morning there will be in the vicinity of 15,000 reports. There were approximately one-third pink and two-thirds of the white cards in the total quantity at the high school this morning, meaning that two-thirds of the families living in these districts had escaped the prevailing epidemic and were free so far from any sickness in the household.

Many of the high school pupils volunteered to assist in this work and were busy all day making cardboard boxes for the cards, and doing whatever clerical work they could in connection with the filing of the reports. There are 1150 streets in this city, and it is the intention to make out three cards for each street, taking the information from the white and pink cards sent in by the various schools.

Some of the teachers found in their canvass yesterday that the school boys were more than anxious to assist them by acting as interpreters in certain districts where the head of the household was unable to speak the English language. The ground was covered quickly and in a convenient manner with the aid of the school children.

COPENHAGEN, Oct. 16.—Upon the resignation of the Turkish ministry of Talaat Pasha, the premiership was assumed by Izzet Pasha, a former minister of war, instead of Tewfik Pasha, former Turkish ambassador to Great Britain, as has been previously reported, according to a Constantinople despatch received here under date of

No foreign minister has as yet been appointed, the message adds, but Naby Bey, former Turkish ambassador at Rome, is in charge of the foreign ministry ad interim.

FIGHTING THE INFLUENZA

Not until the various nurses went around to visit the influenza patients were the real conditions throughout the city fully known. The nurses found the most astounding state of affairs. In some cases whole families were found in bed suffering from the disease with nobody to wait on them or to bring them the proper food and nourishment. To assume this duty became the function of the visiting nurses. In many of the families so afflicted not one of them could speak English, so that an interpreter in several languages became a necessity. In many cases a nurse who could speak English and French could not make herself understood to the patients visited. It became necessary to have interpreters in Greek, Polish, Lithuanian and several other languages.

The work of the Lowell Guild and the corps of nurses placed under its control, including the sisters from the parochial schools, is doing all that is possible for the relief of many stricken families. One of the important things to be done in connection with such cases is to provide the patients with nourishing food adapted to their condition. The kitchen conducted by the Saco-Lowell shops is supplying a very large quantity of nourishing soups to be distributed to needy families.

It might be supposed that under our present economic conditions when everybody is supposed to be steadily employed, there should be no poverty anywhere throughout the city. It must be remembered, however, that when a man who has to support a wife and from three to six small children out of his weekly wages, he finds it difficult to meet all the family needs even while at work. But if taken sick he soon finds himself in a state of destitution. Many such cases have been encountered by nurses throughout the city and have received much needed succor through the various relief agencies.

The facts relative to existing conditions should appeal to the owners of automobiles so as to induce them to allow the use of their vehicles for enabling the nurses to get around to all the families that need attention and relief. Agent Mitchell of the Massachusetts mill has worked hard for the success of this movement and he should have the hearty co-operation of all who can afford to loan their autos for such purposes.

It is reported that the epidemic is on the decline, but even should that be the fact, it will be many weeks before the families now suffering from the disease will have fully recovered. Many of the patients who have already contracted pneumonia will undoubtedly succumb to the disease, but the attention of the nurses and the relief which they bring to the various families, will reduce this number to the minimum. It is a question whether the influenza is in reality on the decline or whether the decrease in the number of cases reported is the result of the preventive measures adopted by the board of health in conjunction with the good officers of the Lowell Guild and all the other agencies fighting the disease throughout the city.

LET THE PEOPLE ANSWER

Now that the German appeal for an armistice on the acceptance of President Wilson's terms has been disposed of and that unconditional surrender can be the only basis for peace, it is in order for every patriotic citizen to put his shoulder to the wheel and help the Fourth Liberty loan to a successful conclusion. To put the loan over the top will be a significant proof of popular approval for President Wilson's patriotic stand against German autocracy and the wanton barbarity which the Germans are practicing on land and sea.

Before President Wilson issued his reply there was some misgiving as to what it might be. Some people thought he might be caught in the German trap, but as in former cases, these critics of the president found that they were mistaken. Now, that the matter is settled and Germany has received her answer from the White House, let another answer go forth from the American people. Let it be in due time be announced that the Fourth Fighting Liberty loan has been oversubscribed. That piece of information would convince Germany and her military authorities that the American people stand firmly behind the president for the prosecution of the war to a conclusion that will sweep away the last vestige of German autocracy, German selfishness and German intrigues.

There can be no doubt that the success of the Fourth Liberty loan will have a far reaching effect in convincing the German people that unless they get rid of the Prussian warlords they can have no peace except through unconditional surrender. It is, therefore, the duty of every friend of freedom who has the money, to subscribe liberally to this loan and thus help the government in promoting the cause of world freedom and democracy.

THE WILSON DIPLOMACY

What it may be asked, has been gained by the inter-rogatories put to Germany by President Wilson? Simply this, that the real issues between the allies and the German government, have been brought more clearly and more forcibly to the attention of the German people. Many of President Wilson's former communications and addresses were not allowed to reach the German people. The German press was prohibited from printing them. In the present case the press printed President Wilson's questions, and also the answer of the German government. Both were thus made known to the entire people who will naturally look with the deepest interest for the president's reply. We do not see how the German press can withhold that from the people. The military authorities will hardly dare to forbid the publication of a communication so vital to the nation.

President Wilson's reply will convey to the German people the reasons why no armistice can be granted. First, because the present autocratic government of Germany has proved so utterly untrustworthy that neither the United States nor the other allied powers can enter into any truce with it. Second, the request for an armistice is rejected because of the barbarous ruthlessness practiced by Germany both on land and sea and in violation of all the rules of civilized warfare.

When this information is properly digested by the people of Germany it is likely that they may decide to get rid of kaiserism, to sweep away the Hohenzollern dynasty and to establish representative government.

Unless the people take the question of peace into their own hands and appeal to the allies, there can be no other ending to the war than the unconditional surrender of Germany and Austria.

President Wilson made it sufficiently clear in his reply that the matter of an armistice would be one for the military commander to decide in reference to terms and guarantees. Altogether it seems, therefore, that although some pessimistic critics felt that President Wilson made a mistake, it now becomes apparent that he secured from Germany an admission of her willingness to accept the announced terms of peace and in reply, he has set forth the reasons why her offer cannot be accepted. He has done this not perhaps in the diplomatic terms that some critics would prefer, but in a dignified manner that has not in any sense closed the door of peace against the German people, in case they take the reins of government into their own hands.

Unless something happens in Germany to change the situation, the allies will proceed with the war on the present lines until Germany begs for peace and surrenders absolutely to the allied powers. Again the diplomacy of President Wilson scored a great triumph.

CASE OF TURKEY

It appears that Turkey has also appealed for a separate peace, not in conjunction with Germany, but rather, we understand, as a secessionist from the so-called central powers. If she follows the example of Bulgaria in surrendering to the allied commanders, she can have peace without further delay, but on no other condition. Turkey must realize that it is futile for her to continue the war. The longer she holds out the worse will be the final reckoning. She had better surrender now than later on. With Turkey and Bulgaria out of the fight, it will not take the allied armies very long to bag Austria and then deal out to Germany the punishment she deserves on account of her fiendish atrocities and the destruction and spoliation she has spread throughout France and Belgium as well as for the inhuman barbarities she has practiced in her submarine warfare.

The salesmen who sell adding machines are usually a pretty talented bunch of men and it is the usual experience that after a prospect has been confronted with both the salesman and the machine he is selling, when the salesman has to pause for breath, the prospect feels the machine has been touted so high it would not be a surprising thing if it started in talking about itself. But here is a drawback for adding machines in general. An adding machine was used to compile the returns for the recent primary. Afterward it turned out that the machine (yes, it was credited to the machine) had made a mistake in its work and some error too, in that it ought to have credited Candidate Channing Cox with 4990 more votes than it did. Hereafter nothing can convince republicans that this particular machine is not dyed in the wool democratic.

That may be all right for the Commonwealth to give old Bill Hay State authority to charge a dime for a ride that we used to get for a nickel and of course if the blue uniformed men are able to make the road's receiver pay them 60 cents an hour for labor that comes dangerously near to being unskilled labor, it will only be in keeping with the spirit of the times. Yet the fact remains that the Hay State is getting to a point where it will soon be selling its transportation service at a figure at which, in other communities, automobiles and auto buses have been able to do business and make money. If the time comes when the auto becomes an active competitor of the Bay State, there will be plenty of vacant seats on Bay State cars.

Who would ever have surmised that the name "Hearst" carried with it too much suspicion and bad odor for it to be seen in the company of a respectable and patriotic "movie." It seems to prove that way. Most movie fans are familiar with the feature known as the "Hearst-Pathe Weekly." It has been a good weekly too. But now the Pathe people come forward and say that when the contract they hold with the Hearst International News Service expires, December 24, they will not renew the contract. They expect to rid themselves of what they characterize as the embarrassment of being a partner of Hearst, and the misfortune of having profits cut because customers shy away from the Hearst part of the weekly pictorial.

"Ho, ho, good fellows," says an element in the republican party these days, "look upon my patriotism as somewhat better than anything else of the kind you have seen circulating around these parts. I put the 'pat' and the fighting part in 'patriot.' The blood that my kind of patriots spill is somewhat more red and inspiring than the blood of common, snatched-from-the-street, patriots. In other words, I know I am really holier than thou, but I am at all times ready to let you common 'uns stand around and watch me." This foolish conceit is all that is left of the old ruling regime.

Mayor Thompson recognized merit in promoting a number of patrolmen to the rank of sergeants. He took the men as they stood on the civil service list, thus showing that he is not playing any favorites. His Honor has thus offered assurance to the department that merit will count in obtaining promotion. That is the proper incentive to keep before the men of the department at all times. When that rule is violated the morale of the department is lowered and their efficiency to that extent reduced. It is to be hoped His Honor will see that the same rule is carried out by his subordinate officers.

The New York Herald says it has it straight that the present chancellor of Germany, Prince Max, was once an inmate of a madhouse in Bavaria. Fit tool of the kaiser because many of us have always considered the kaiser a "nut." So when Prince Max receives a reply from President Wilson and the German papers say it makes him "mad," there ought to be some distinction as to whether he is provoked or whether the attendants at the foolish house in Bavaria can start dusting out the room Maxey was in the last time he was there.

It becomes increasingly apparent that if they have any shrewdness left, the German people must be about ready to realize that to avoid terrible slaughter with the wealth of the world massed against them and to cast off the yoke of kaiserism the one step needed is to turn their affairs over to the allies. But this cannot be done while the kaiser and his autocrats have charge of the inkstand.

It seems as if it had been a long time since anything was printed showing that something connected with dentistry had been boosted in its price. Now the dentists are making very much of a kick because the gold furnished them to fill teeth is to cost them 10 per cent more than previously. The dentists allege that there is profiteering and possibly there is ground for their contention.

SEEN AND HEARD

Do your Christmas shopping early. Buy Liberty bonds.

So you're in a fix? Buy more bonds!

Instead of silver lining, the Germans will soon find the clouds are lined with American airplanes.

Old Doc Wilhelm is having a hard time keeping the Sick Man of Europe from complete dissolution.

It was overlooked in the official report, but wonder if some of that famed German efficiency wasn't left behind in the retreat.

Even epidemics have their consolations. Think of the Thrift Stamps we can buy after three weeks of "keeping away from crowds."

We haven't received any reports of the man who went hungry to buy Liberty bonds. Sometimes the boys over there have to go hungry. Buy more bonds.

"Our enemies cannot and will not succeed. We are under divine protection," says the kaiser. It must be mighty consoling to the German people to know that Bill has Gott's confidence to that extent.

Controlling the Winds

Controlling the winds is not yet an aviation triumph. If an aircraft starts from one point to fly to another due east there is a wind blowing at 15 miles an hour northeast, that will clearly have to be taken into consideration, and the compass course altered (before ascending), according to the total distance of the journey.

Charging Small Accounts

"Send me a bill," said a man who came into the News office this morning, after leaving an advertisement. The man lives in Beverly, so the postman on the bill would be three cents and the stationery and office cost and the expense of forwarding the bill once will be about 10 cents. Then if the bill is not settled promptly, statements will be required.

Many people are careless about paying small accounts, and so it is possible that three or four letters might be required to collect the half-dollar.

Other concerns have similar experiences. One man I was talking with about the matter said that a customer called for an article costing 5 cents, and said "charge it." The man was told that he could have the small affair free of charge, because of the expense of bookkeeping would be more than 5 cents. Cash was paid, of course.

The next time you feel like saying "Charge it" on a small item remember this paragraph.—Salem Evening News.

Aerial Compasses

Many difficulties had to be overcome in the production of a satisfactory compass for aerial work. Chief among these was that of neutralizing the magnetism of the engine (and in particular the magnetos), and of preventing the effect of centrifugal force which caused the card or dial inside the compass to swing in a direction quite independent of north when the aeroplane was banking on a turn. However, a truly excellent compass is now in use.

Guessed His Motive

One evening some time since John Henry called on the darling of his heart, and while talking to the fair one he casually referred to some of the hardships of the present day.

"I see, Gladys," he remarked, "that the price of coal has gone up again, and that it is hard to get at any price."

"Has it?" responded Gladys, without showing any great concern.

"Yes," answered John Henry, "and they say they are also advancing house rents, while sugar—"

"Look here, John Henry," suddenly interjected the fair one, with a withering expression. "If you want to break off our engagement, say so, but don't try to beat around the bush in such a cowardly way."—Philadelphia Telegraph.

The Spring of Yankee Heather

The following poem by Bernard D. Ward, of 133 South street, was occasioned by his being made the recipient of a sprig of real Scotch heather grown at West Townsend:

I thank ye John for bringing back
A glimpse of other days
In a sprig of purple heather
From New England's bonnie braes
It minds me o' the dear Lang Syne
Sac sweet in memories long
When as a lad I used to roam
O'er hill and dale and glen.

I felt a quickening o' my pulse
And the tear drops in me
And my heart was back in Scotland
Tho' the deep seas rolled between
I could see the rolling sun
And the Bonnie Heather Bells
Cast a gold and purple mantle
In the waters o' the Fells.

Ye brocht me back the heart and name
And I kissed the Yankee heather
The link that would love wi' the new
In brotherhood together
On battlefield the bond was sealed
Wi' blood o' Scot and Yankee
The purple stream, the heather's gleam
I thank ye John, I thank ye.

Profitable Fishing

Some idea of the business of the poor fishermen off the United States can be formed by the report of the direct and incidental losses when the German undersea boat sank the schooner Robert and Richard off the coast of Maine. That was the best money-maker of the Gloucester fishing fleet, valued at $28,000 and insured for $12,000. The crew had stowed in 30,000 pounds of halibut and 70,000 pounds of many varieties of fish and started the schooner for Boston, when the Hun dog barked off Cash's bank.

The Robert and Richard had earned between $60,000 and $70,000 since Jan. 1 with a crew of 23 men. The vessel and cargo of fish were valued at $35,000, the result of two weeks' out-fishing. That means a schooner earning about $15,000 a month with an original investment of not more than $25,000. It took up to a total of $180,000 a year. Presuming that the crew gets $60,000 of that, or nearly $3000 a year

BY L. MAC LEAN, M. D.

Probably no man in America was ever better qualified to successfully treat the diseases peculiar to women than Dr. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y. The cases that come to him run into many thousands, giving him an experience that rarely comes to any one man. Dr. Pierce found that in nearly every case there were certain vegetable growths which rarely failed to give prompt relief in those feminine disorders from which the women suffer. He combined these roots and herbs into a temperance medicine that he called Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, for that is precisely what it was. This medicine is sold in both liquid and tablet form by druggists everywhere. Favorite Prescription is a distinct remedy for women and acts directly upon the organs that characterize the sex. It is not necessary to take a long course of treatment with this standard medicine. A weakly, sickly, backache, headache, nervous, despondent woman, with regular or irregular pains, with feminine disorders that come in youth or middle age—is pretty sure to find in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription the exact remedy that her condition calls for, and to find it after a very few doses are taken. Why women should allow themselves to stay sick when a very little money spent for this remedy will probably make them well, is something no one can explain.

All women who suffer from feminine disorders are invited to write the Faculty of the Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y., for free confidential consultation and advice, no charge to benefit by the advice of the distinguished corps of physicians which Dr. Pierce has gathered about him in his celebrated Buffalo institution.

When constipation is present, with feminine disorders, Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets should be taken along with Favorite Prescription. Try them now!—Adv.

In a Tight Place

"I'm in a tight place
Of tight place
You see I'm still Laying on my last
Braid, and I'm tied Up for Thrift and War Savings Stamps,
And living is so
High, and ere, etc."
So you think you
Are in a "tight place?"
Unagainst it?
Can't figure the Next move?
All right—
Well just picture
A lad "over there"
In a "tight place."
Lying in a
Sooty hole, half
Filled with oozy
Mud. No sleep for
The last three days.
Ate the last of his
"Buddy" crouched
Up along side of him
"Dad for!"
"Jammed" machine gun!
"Shy of ammo!"
"Hun patrol coming up!"
He still has a "clip"
In his auto "gat!"
"Not much chance, but I might scrape through
It, I'll just lay
Low, but they ain't
Gonna get me—Alive!"

mine, by handing out what I offer here:

Three days to climb on the band wagon. It's a colossal affair, this band wagon, and anyone who climbs up and has a seat among the bright uniformed musicians, will find himself in the company of patriots and who does that mean? As sure as you're a foot high it means some man, woman or child who has "kicked in" and loaned money to our government by buying a Liberty bond. I regard it as no favor to loan one's money to an institution like the United States government. Our government is too big and powerful an institution with too great and honorable a history for you or me to buy a Liberty bond in a patronizing spirit. You and I can't patronize the United States government.

Is it worth while to buy a bond and have a seat on the band wagon? Well, I should so say, and then some. The person who stays by his lonesome and stays out, is just the same as cutting himself a whole show and while on some occasions a one ring circus can get by, one man bands have so far been a failure. It is really worth while on account of the personal satisfaction it gives, to be on the band wagon, hearing the patriotic music, examining and being examined by the contributing another happy occasion toward so thoroughly ridding Germany of certain royal pests which have not only put that nation practically into a receiver's hands, but at one time threatened to make the entire world a victim of these same royal pests.

I have heard various alibis of persons who desired to stick by themselves and not be bond buyers. I heard of one woman employed in a certain munition plant in this city who told a bond salesman she, "just couldn't afford to buy a bond in this loan because she was looking out for her father and mother and she almost had to cut corners to do that." This particular woman is earning more money than any man or woman of her family has ever earned per week for as many generations back as it is possible to correctly trace the ancestral pay envelope. I take no position of saying this woman should neglect her parents for the sake of buying a bond but I will here and now remind this woman of this fact.

Get on the band wagon or not, just as you please. You have three days to do it in. Whether you buy a bond or not, before I start for a restaurant dinner I'll leave this fact for you to think about. Practically all the soldiers in Pershing's army, through a common spokesman sent this message to Secretary McAdoo, "We hope the Fighting Fourth loan will go over and be fully subscribed but if it looks as if it might fail by a few millions, use our pay, all our pay, to buy Fighting Fourth Liberty bonds, we know we're playing a winner when we back Uncle Sam."

If a man is willing to give his life and his money, for heaven's sake what else has he to give? Don't you think that "myself and mine," theory I told you about, may seem increasingly phantasmagoric? Pershing and his men will not have anything on me in buying a bond and I'm going to be on the band wagon. You and I are not for the war, we are not for Uncle Sam and we are not behind the land, sea and air fight, unless we buy one bond or more. We go to buy until it hurts. What's the use of kidding ourselves into believing that anything else may be true?

ALLIES Sweep On After Taking Menin, While Enemy Continues Retreat

Impressive Scene at Roulers —French Mayor Plays the "Marseillaise" as Shells Fly

WITH THE ALLIED ARMIES IN BELGIUM, Tuesday, Oct. 15.—(9 p. m.)—By the Associated Press.—Menin has fallen. Allied troops are a mile east of Roulers and advanced patrols are, according to latest reports within a mile of Courtrai.

The Lys river seems to have been crossed between Comines, which has been captured, and Warneton.

Reports indicate that another crossing of the Lys has been effected at Verwien.

South of the zone where the mud-spattered allied troops are fighting their way forward through the rain and the mist and over sticky ground, the enemy has begun a withdrawal. His troops are being moved backward from Pont-a-Huenn and Berleau and from the Rouleulium front. Here British patrols have reached the outskirts of the town of Neiruchen.

Enemy defenses of great strength were encountered during the day by the British. There were entanglements of great depth and innumerable pill boxes which had to be reduced.

There was an impressive scene at Roulers when the place was taken. A French major gathered the rescued civilians and German prisoners around a battered piano in the square and as the shells screamed overhead, he played the "Marseillaise."

"Did you ever hear that before?" he asked the people of the city.

The civilians cheered themselves hoarse.

Roulers was in good condition after the German retreat. East of the city the Ingelmunster road has been crossed. The enemy withdrawal southward of the area under attack will involve the whole Lille salient.

Definite information has been received that the Germans removed Spanish and American railcars worth $5,000 francs before abandoning Roulers.

The civilians there ceased rejoicing over their liberation, long enough to show the French troops where there were some enemy machine guns which were destined to destroy a large part of the town. They also revealed the hiding places of some Germans.

Tonight's reports indicate that the French cavalry has determined to get through the German lines. It is said they have reached Valenciennes and are now probably beyond that place.

LONG HEADQUARTERS ARE OPENED IN THIS CITY

The Lowell "Long for Governor" committee has opened campaign headquarters at Room 1, Odd Fellows building, Middlesex street. Already plans have been made to conduct an aggressive campaign here in behalf of the democratic candidate.

James P. Heslin of 57 Mt. Grove st., who was in charge of the local campaign in behalf of Candidate Long in the primaries will remain at the helm of local activities in the fight for election. Mr. Heslin's success in the primary campaign brought much favorable comment throughout the state and Candidate Long, himself, sent him a message of gratitude and congratulation on his splendid achievement.

Mr. Heslin plans to organize an effective and representative committee, with various sub-committees, the latter being composed of prominent democrats in all the local precincts.

While Candidate Long has refrained from political activities during the Liberty loan drive in order to devote all his energies toward putting the loan over the top, he plans to conduct a vigorous campaign when the loan drive ends. He will come to Lowell, as will many other prominent speakers from all parts of the state.

The local Long headquarters were opened yesterday and will remain open until election day.

demie of which he was a victim. Under- takers Higgins Bros. had charge. Among those present from out of town were Sgt. Clancy, a brother of a deceased and member of the police department of New York city and purchasing agent McKenna of the city of Lawrence.

The death of Officer Clancy was particularly sad owing to the fact that his sister died only two weeks ago. It is believed that loss of sleep and worry about the time of her death, helped to bring on his fatal illness. Officer Clancy possessed many noble traits of character, which endeared him to all with whom he came in contact. A man of more than ordinary education and mental brilliancy, he was uniformly kind, genial, courteous and self-sacrificing, loyal in his friendships and always the ready friend of every good cause. His loss is deeply deplored by his associates in the department as well as by all those with whom he came in contact in the course of his daily duties.

CALL A PHYSICIAN—GO TO BED—STAY QUIET—

DON'T WORRY

There is no occasion for panic—Influenza itself has a very low percentage of fatalities, not over one case, according to the N. C. board of health. The chief danger lies in complications arising, attacking principally patients in a run down condition—those who do not get to bed soon enough, or those who get up too early.

THE SYMPTOMS

Grip, or influenza as it is now called, usually begins with a chill followed by aching, feverishness and sometimes nausea and dizziness, and a general feeling of the body to depression. The temperature is from 100 to 104, and the fever usually lasts from three to five days. The germs attack the mucous membrane of the nose, throat and bronchial tubes—there is usually a hard cough, especially bad at night, often times a sore throat or tonsillitis and frequently all the appearances of a severe head cold.

THE TREATMENT

Go to bed at the first symptoms, not only for your own sake but to avoid spreading the disease to others. Take a purgative, eat plenty of nourishing food, remain perfectly quiet and don't worry. Quinine, aspirin or Dover's powder, etc., used as directed by the physician's directions to relieve the aching. But there is no cure or relief. Influenza is the disease must run its course, but you can help yourself by throwing off the attack if only you keep up your strength. The chief danger lies in complications which may arise. Influenza weakens the bodily resistance that there is danger of pneumonia or bronchitis developing and mental depression, inflammation of the middle ear or nose attacks. For these reasons, it is very important that the patient remain in bed until recovery.

MASS NOTICE

In loving remembrance of Mrs. Jeanette E. (Muldoon) Tilton, who died Oct. 17, 1918, an anniversary high mass will be celebrated at the Immaculate Conception church Thursday morning at 8 o'clock.

MR. AND MRS. JOHN MULDOON and Family.

CARD OF THANKS

At this time we desire to express our heartfelt thanks to our friends, neighbors and relatives for their kindness to us on the occasion of the death of our beloved, Mrs. Mary Rose De la Cruz, who died Oct. 14, 1918. We desire to come to always remember their kindness to us in this hour of our great sorrow.

EDWARD O'CONNOR

The following tribute to the memory of the late Edward O'Connor was received at The Sun office today with respect to the publication.

The many friends of Edward O'Connor throughout the city, were shocked to learn of his death which occurred at his home, 22 Princeton street, Monday, Oct. 14, after an illness of only two weeks.

"Ned," as he was known to his friends, spent his life in this city, receiving his education at St. Patrick's Boys' school. He was a devout member of St. Patrick's church for many years, and always took an active part in all social and welfare work connected with the parish. He was a young man of sterling qualities, possessed of a disposition that was always cheerful and kind. He endeavored himself to overcome his handicap in contact with his noble and generous nature was an inspiration to all who knew him, and to know him was to love him. He was active in all the basketball games in this city and was a lover of clean sport. He had been coach for the O.M.U. basketball team since it was organized and he had the friendship, confidence and respect of the boys, as well as the larger ones. Generous to a fault, he was always eager to extend a helping hand to his fellowmen. His ready smile and cheerful greeting were missed by his countless friends, who are better for having known such a noble and generous young man. He is gone from our midst, but his memory shall live like the perfume of a rare flower.

TRIBUTE TO MR. STRATTON

As an expression of sorrow on the death of our departed friend, Herbert Stratton, the operatives of No. 5 mill of the Tremont and Suffolk request the following:

Grim death has claimed a friend of ours.

And one we can't forget.

He was a kindly gentleman

His loss we all regret.

His death came as shock to us.

And caused us deepest pain.

Oh, may his soul be with the blessed!

Where he shall live again.

EXTERNAL APPLICATIONS

In order to stimulate the lining of the air passages to throw off the grippe germs, to aid in loosening the phlegm and keeping the air passages open, thus making the breathing easier, Vick's Vaporub will be found effective. Hot, wet towels should be applied over the throat, chest and back between the shoulder blades to open the pores. Then Vaporub should be rubbed in over the parts until the skin is red and warm. The chest and back should be covered with two thicknesses of hot flannel cloths. Leave the clothing close around the neck as the heat of the body liberates the ingredients in the form of vapors. These vapors, inhaled with each breath, carry the medication directly to the parts affected. At the same time Vaporub is absorbed thru and stimulates the skin, attracting the blood to the surface and thus aids in relieving the congestion within.

HOW TO AVOID THE DISEASE

Evidence seems to prove that this is a germ disease, spread principally by human contact, chiefly thru coughing, sneezing or spitting. So avoid persons having colds—which means avoiding crowds, crowded places, cups, roller towels, etc. Keep up your bodily strength by plenty of exercise in open air, and good food. Above all, keep free from colds, as colds irritate the lining of the air passages and render them much better breeding places for the germs.

NOTE: Vick's Vaporub is the discovery of a North Carolina druggist, who found how to combine in suitable form Menthol and Camphor with such essential oils as Eucalyptus, Thyme, Cinnamon, etc., so that when the salve is applied to the body heat these ingredients are liberated in the form of vapors.

Vaporub is comparatively new in New York, New England and a few western states, where it is just now being introduced. In other sections of the country, however, it is the standard remedy in over a million homes for all forms of cold troubles—more than six million jars were sold last year.

It is especially recommended for children's colds or coughs, since it is externally applied and, therefore, can be used as freely without danger of the slightest harmful effects. Vaporub can be had in three sizes—30c, 60c and $1.20—at all druggists.

HOUR OF FATHERLAND'S GREATEST DISTRESS

COPENHAGEN, Tuesday, Oct. 15.—The last obstacle to the reform of Prussia's antiquated three-class franchise has been removed by the adoption unanimously, of the following resolution by the conservative faction of the Prussian diet:

"In the hour of the fatherland's greatest distress and in realization that we must be equipped to fight hard battles for the integrity of the fatherland's soil, the conservative party of the diet considers it a patriotic duty to lay aside all internal conflict and be ready to make heavy sacrifices to attain the ends in view. The members of the party believe that a far-reaching radicalization of the Prussian constitution will not advance the welfare of the Prussian people, but are nevertheless prepared to abandon their opposition to the equal franchise in Prussia, in accordance with the latest decision of their friends in the house of lords, in order to assure a harmonious front against the outside world."

LOWELL GIRL ON HER WAY TO FRANCE

Miss Regina Berger, daughter of Mrs. Charles Dumas of 9 Mt. Vernon street, has sailed from New York for France, where she will be assigned to some base hospital at the front as a Red Cross nurse.

Miss Berger was born in this city and received her education in the local schools. About four years ago she graduated as a trained nurse from the state infirmary in Tewksbury and since that time she has been employed in various cities. About two years ago she took a civil service examination and secured a government position in the Panama canal zone, where she remained six months. Later she was employed in a hospital in Manchester, N. H. The young woman has a brother in the service and another, who has enlisted, but has not yet been called. Her many friends in this city will wish her the best of success in her new career.

AN EXPLODED IDEA

Time was when we used to think there was nothing and could be nothing like fresh creamy butter! The idea of a substitute for butter was repugnant to most of us. The old type Oleomargarine was a substance deemed not quite respectable. But science has made progress since Dewey fought the Spaniards at Manila, and today Benoit Brand "Sweet Nut" is a table luxury that many consider fully the equal, if not the superior, of the real dairy product. There is something appetizing in the thought, "Sweet Nut" Margarine is churned from the delicious white meat of the coconut and palm oil. It is all of all, it cuts your butter bill almost in half—32c a pound, sold only at the Direct Importing Co.'s red front store, 81 Merrimack street. Love with Benoit Brand Teas, Coffees and Grocery Specialties are retailed at wholesale prices.

WOMAN'S NERVES MADE STRONG

By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Winona, Minn.—"I suffered for more than a year from nervousness, and was so bad I could not rest at night—would be awake and get so nervous I would have to get up and walk around and in the morning would be all tired out. I read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and thought I would try it. My nervousness soon left me. I sleep well and feel fine in the morning and able to do my work. I gladly recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to make weak nerves strong."—Mrs. ALBERT SULTZE, 603 Olmstead St., Winona, Minn.

How often do we hear the expression among women, "I am so nervous, I can't sleep," or "it seems as though I should fly." Such women should profit by Mrs. Sultze's experience and give this famous root and herb remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, a trial.

For forty years it has been overcoming such serious conditions as displacements, inflammation, ulceration, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, dizziness, and nervous prostration of women, and is now considered the standard remedy for such ailments.

REPARATION FOR DAMAGE
COMMITTED BY HUNS

PARIS, Tuesday, Oct. 15.—(Havas)—The French senate today unanimously passed a resolution permitting the government to proceed actively in co-operation with the allies with plans to obtain reparation for damage committed by the Germans. Stephen Pichon, the foreign minister, declared that he has more power to insist on the just claims against Germany. The atrocities which Germany had committed, he added, would have other atonement than moral condemnation. The Germans must be punished sufficiently to prevent forever the possible recurrence of such crimes as the world recently had witnessed, he said.

BOSTON FLYER ESCAPES
FROM HUN PRISON

PARIS, Oct. 16.—The Paris edition of the Chicago Tribune has received dispatches from Switzerland confirming the report that 71 Americans recently escaped from the German prison camp at Villigen, Baden, Oct. 15. Two are reported to have arrived safely in Switzerland. They are Lieut. Isaac, U.S.N., of the U.S.S. President Lincoln, and Corporal Harold Willis of Boston, who fell a prisoner to the Germans in August of 1917, while a member of the Lafayette escadrille, escaped from the camp on Oct. 4.

BOSTON, October 16.—Harold R. Willis, of this city, whose escape from a German prison and arrival in Switzerland is reported, went to France in 1915 as a member of an American ambulance unit. He joined the French air service in the following year and held the rank of corporal in the Lafayette escadrille. He was graduated from Harvard college in 1912.

Try Magnesia for
Stomach Trouble

It Neutralizes Stomach Acidity, Prevents Food Fermentation, Sour, Gassy Stomach and Acid Indigestion

Doubtless if you are a sufferer from indigestion, you have already tried pepsin, bismuth, soda, charcoal, drugs and various digestive aids, and you know these things will not cure your trouble—in some cases do not even give relief. But before giving up hope and deciding you are a chronic dyspeptic just try the effect of a little bisulphated magnesia—not the ordinary commercial carbonate, chloride or milk, but the pure bisulphated magnesia which you can obtain from practically any drugist in either powdered or tablet form. Take a teaspoonful of the powder or two compressed tablets with a little water after your next meal, and see what a difference this makes. It will instantly neutralize the dangerous, harmful acid in the stomach which now causes your food to ferment and sour, making gas, wind, flatulence, heartburn and the bloated or heavy, lumpy feeling that seems to follow most dyspeptic meals. You will find that this provided you take a little bisulphated magnesia immediately after a meal, you can eat almost anything and enjoy it without any danger of pain or discomfort to follow and moreover, the continued use of the bisulphated magnesia cannot injure the stomach in any way so long as there are any symptoms of acid indigestion. dial announcement. "These reports carried ample evidence that the country realized the serious business it had ahead during the remainder of this week to make the Fourth Liberty loan a success."

More encouraging reports come today from the Boston, Philadelphia and New York districts, where the influenza epidemic has been checked sufficiently to permit resumption of open air meetings in many localities.

"Paul Revere" Rides

Spectacular methods used in the Cleveland district for the loan included a series of modern Paul Revere rides through 120 towns of thirty-five counties in Ohio and Pennsylvania last night by crews of workers in army motor trucks. The trucks were equipped with aerial bombs, electrical gongs sirens and red fire, while the riders carried supplied with shotguns and blank cartridges. Towns were visited after midnight, citizens called out of bed and met at their doors with torches armed with subscription blanks. About $250,000 in subscriptions were gathered in this way during the night. At Brookline, Pa., the Liberty loan riders were mistaken for bank robbers and put in the village calaboose for three hours. At Georgetown, Ohio, and Jefferson, Pa., the raiding party was fired upon. The raids will be extended to many other communities in the district tonight.

RAISE $11,460,000
IN 10 MINUTES

BOSTON, Oct. 16.—Business men of Boston vied with each other to double and treble their subscriptions to the Fourth Liberty loan at the meeting held yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the Exchange club.

Urged on by Robert F. Herrick, who presided; Henry B. Endicott, president of the Federal Reserve bank; Col. William A. Gaston, Mayor Andrew J. Peters and Daniel G. Wing, president of the First National bank of Boston, subscribers rose to their feet and shouted enthusiastically that they wished to be put down for another $300,000.

Subscriptions from corporations and from individuals came in so fast that the two stenographers were at a loss to get down the names of the men and their amounts. At the end of 10 minutes the total pledged was $11,460,000. The meeting was called to put before the principal business men of the city the need of subscribing to the loan until it hurt. The fact that $40,000,000 a day is needed from New England until the end of the campaign if the district is to reach its quota was emphasized by each speaker. At the conclusion of the three-minute address Mr. Herrick, called for speakers from the floor.

A representative from the United Shoe Machinery company said that his company authorized him to double the former subscription of $1,000,000. Then two or three men attempted to subscribe $500,000 each, at the same time, and within 10 minutes practically every man in the room had added to his subscription.

"BUY NOW" THE
NEW LOAN SLOGAN

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—"Buy now," today became a companion of "double the third," as a slogan in the campaign for the Fourth Liberty loan. With officially reported subscriptions more than $3,015,000 short of the six billion dollar total, instructions were sent today to every local campaign committee to impress upon the American public the necessity of buying bonds now instead of waiting until Saturday, the final day.

N. E. LOAN TOTAL

BOSTON, Oct. 16.—The largest total of any day since the opening day of the campaign was shown in tabulation of yesterday's subscriptions in New England to the Fourth Liberty loan. The amount was announced today by the federal reserve bank as $337,671,000 and brought the district total to date to $337,671,000. Massachusetts contributed $29,450,000 of which $10,745,000 came from Boston. The balance for the other states were: Connecticut $11,165,000; Rhode Island $2,750,000; Maine $2,100,000; New Hampshire $1,204,000; Vermont $364,000. Less than 100 of the 524 banks in the district failed to report.

Several new cities and towns were added to the honor list today, the total of which stood at noon at 493. Of these Vermont had 150; Maine 148; New Hampshire 80; Connecticut 55; Massachusetts 52 and Rhode Island, two.

number of cases that demand immediate hospital treatment, there will be no alternative but to open the final ward of the hospital group.

There have been nine deaths at the hospital to date. One of these occurred this morning. Patients who have been at the hospital 48 hours at least have been able to pull through. The deaths that have occurred have been those of people almost dead when they arrived at the hospital.

Dr. Eskey reported that a priest was in attendance at the hospital every day, either Rev. Patrick J. Hall, pastor of St. Columba's church, or Rev. Francis McNeil, his curate, visiting the patients.

The Theatre Managers

"At this point representatives of the Lowell Theatre Managers' association entered the room where the meeting was being held. Those present included Benjamin E. Pickett, manager of B. F. Keith's theatre; Walter J. Nelson, manager of the Merrimack Square theatre; J. F. Sellman, manager of The Strand theatre; R. S. Averill, manager of the Owl theatre, and George Husson, manager of the Royal theatre.

Mr. Pickett said that the Boston theatres had received official notice that they might open next Monday and that he believed this would mean that a great many Lowell people would go to Boston if the local theatres weren't open. Trains would be congested, there would be congestion in the Boston theatres and that would not help out the local situation in the least.

He believed that the board of health might as well allow the Lowell theatres to open. He added that the theatres in Haverhill were to open tomorrow.

Dr. Brunelle—"We're getting reports on epidemic conditions from all over the state. We are concerned principally with the situation here. During the last few days the board of health has noted a decline in the number of cases reported. At this time I don't believe that we are warranted in saying to you gentlemen that your theatres may open on next Monday or any other specified date. In regard to people going to Boston, I can only say that it is hard to control the general public. We can merely make rules and regulations to protect people because people won't protect themselves. They are only human. If, after we make rules, people insist on exposing themselves, then we can't do anything more. To specify any date on which you gentlemen may open your theatres would be impractical at this time. We will do it as soon as we feel it can be done."

Mr. Nelson of the Merrimack Square theatre said: "All the surrounding towns have been hit by the epidemic, either heavier or lighter than Lowell. I understand Haverhill was hit a little before us, but the theatres there are going to open tomorrow. We closed one day before the Boston theatres and they can open Monday. In the case of the local theatres, we've got to have at least three days' notice before we can open. We can't do it in a day or two. I believe we should have consideration in that respect. I have been in touch with the film exchange in Boston and they say that if we given them three days' notice, they will be able to supply us."

Dr. Brunelle—"You wouldn't want us to let you open now and then have to ask you to close again and put you to needless expense, would you? We would do you a great injustice if things got worse instead of better."

Mr. Nelson—"No, that would react too harshly."

Dr. Brunelle—"As soon as we have the epidemic to be on the wane for a certainty, we'll be glad to tell you to open."

Mr. Sellman—"There wouldn't be any chance of saying 'open Monday' would there?"

Mr. Pickett—"When do you think you will be able to give us definite assurance?"

Dr. Brunelle—"Possibly by the end of this week."

6122 in 30 Cities in Week
Ending Oct. 12.—Heaviest
Toll in Philadelphia

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—There were 6122 deaths from influenza in 30 cities the week ending October 12, as compared with 19 the week ending Sept. 14, when the disease got its foothold in New England. In the same period there were 4409 deaths from pneumonia.

These figures announced today by the Bureau of census, do not include figures from army camps, and with reports missing from all other cities and towns and country districts there was no way of estimating the total number of deaths.

The heaviest toll from influenza was 1697 in Philadelphia. The New York total was 979, Boston 550 and Chicago 571.

5000 Die in New York in Month

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—More than 5000 persons have died from Spanish influenza and pneumonia in this city within a month, over 20,000 have been ill and the new cases developing during the past 24 hours show a big increase over those reported yesterday, according to the figures given out today by the health department. Fatalities are slowly decreasing, however, the deaths from both diseases being fewer on today's lists than on Tuesday morning.

NEW PRESIDENT OF

PEKING, Thursday, Oct. 10.—(By the Associated Press) Hsu Shi Chang was inaugurated president today in the presence of members of the cabinet and of parliament. A reception followed at which members of the diplomatic corps tendered their congratulations.

a number of local retail elgar and tobacco stores being open after 6.30 at night while his place of business was closed. He said that the police officer on the beat had come to him, several times and requested him to close his store at 6.30. He wanted to know if the other stores were to be obliged to do so.

Dr. Brunelle said that the ruling applied to all stores and that it is up to the police to enforce it. Mr. Notini said that he had complained to the chief of police and later to the mayor. The mayor had sent him to the board of health.

Mr. Drury, of the board of health, said that similar complaints had been coming in for the past couple of days. Dr. Carroll said that the police had been notified of the board's ruling and that if stores are open, the officers on some beats are not doing their duty.

Dr. Brunelle made a motion that the matter be referred to the mayor, but Mr. Drury said that he believed the mayor had already done all there was to be done in the matter. Therefore, the motion was not carried.
